[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

FRANK MOULTON'S STATEMENT

You Can't Have It—And the whole Nasty [illegible] may go into History as a Hallucination on the Part of Everybody but Beecher

NEW YORK, August 11.—There is great dissatisfaction with the draft of the Beecher scandal. The withholding of Moulton's statement creates much unfavorable comment, and there is a belief that a compromise is on foot. The Argus says it is even stated that Mrs. Tilton is prepared to state that she has been laboring under a hallucination; that Beecher is willing to resign his pastorate; that the society will refuse to accept his resignation and that Tilton will upon these conditions again open the doors of his house to his wife.

[illegible] Tracy said to-day that the Committee had not [illegible] whether it will keep Moulton's statement until all proceedings were printed or keep it back altogether.

[illegible] Butler had a long interview with Moulton this morning, and subsequently with Tracy, who had come from Beecher.

The Committee in Search of Something Bearing Heavily against Tilton

The Brooklyn Eagle of this afternoon says Moulton, with his statement to the Committee, handed copies of documents quoted in Tilton's communication. It appears from a [illegible] comparison made by the Committee that Tilton, in quoting the documents, arranged them to suit himself. In some cases where only [illegible] is quoted various significant passages are omitted. In one case a letter is divided [illegible] as if there were two letters, apparently for the purpose of accumulating testimony. The Committee look on these changes as very significant [illegible] bearing heavily against Tilton.

[illegible] his Honor with his Documents

Moulton was briefly cross-examined, and he maintained the same position. He reiterated what appeared in his statement, that if any attempt were made to assail his position as a friend of both parties or to question his honor, he might be under the necessity of making a [illegible] statement. For the present he contented himself with furnishing the Committee with exact copies of documents quoted by Tilton.

Report that Mr. [illegible] has Confessed

The Tilton ph[illegible] [illegible] that Beecher has made a confession to his counsel and some members of the Committee that is very disheartening to them, but the Committee have decided to continue the investigation. They, however, have [illegible] [illegible] men and have urged him to withhold most of it and to cover only such points as have already been made public. This action coincided with General Butler's and he has [illegible] for his already prepared and voluminous statement.

The Committee [illegible] night [illegible] witnesses and adjourned soon after. The Committee were as non-committal as ever. It is confidently predicted [illegible] not be published [illegible] It is not known which witnesses will [illegible] or when any examination will be made.

The Conscientious Moulton.

NEW YORK, August 11.—The Brooklyn Eagle this afternoon has the following: [illegible] Moulton's [illegible] 12 foolscap pages not closely written. Moulton says in substance that all he knows about the difficulty between Tilton and Beecher [illegible] was intrusted to him in a conference, with all the documents in the [illegible] or [illegible] and that these documents were intrusted to him in confidence. He says that he has known Tilton since 1857 and that he became personally acquainted with Beecher in 18[illegible] [illegible] he has the consent of both Beecher and Tilton to [illegible] all he knows [illegible] documents [illegible] has been taken [illegible] the Committee. He says he cannot in conscience [illegible] any confidences which have been placed in him. He came into the case as a peacemaker [illegible] and all that he has done has been [illegible] a [illegible] function.

The Erie Att[illegible] [illegible] the [illegible]

No new developments in the Beecher case, [illegible] in full view of Moulton's testimony unreservedly reports that it fails to criminate (Beecher?) in the least and that his only motive for silence hitherto when speaking out would show him blameless was a generous regard for others. He cites Dr. Edward Beecher's note regarding Mrs. Hooker as disclosing one of several closet skeletons for which the accused is not responsible. Sympathizers with Beecher are [illegible] an unequivocal declaration that he will come out clear as crystal.

[illegible] Correspondent.

NEW YORK, August [illegible].—The Brooklyn Argus says Moulton stated to a correspondent of the Chicago Times that Beecher's conduct had been one of treachery and [illegible] that [illegible] her heart [illegible] to Moulton [illegible] Tilton had found burning love letters from Beecher that Mrs. Tilton wrote to Beecher. "We must meet soon at [illegible]" [illegible].

Tilton again scouts the thought of compromising before paving stones [illegible] into roses.

One of Moulton's Relatives, "[illegible]" by an Interview.

A relation of Moulton says Frank laid before the Committee only the letters referred to in the Tilton statement. He determined that only the [illegible] included in the Committee's request should be furnished. This informant neither asserts nor denies that there were other letters, but an interviewer who asked him understood him indirectly to admit that their non production leaves the matter in such shape that Beecher's reputation will be saved, Mrs. Tilton's preserved and Theodore satisfied.

THE WAR OF RACES

Serious Riot in Austin, Miss.—1,000 Negroes Capture the Town—Reports of Gross Outrages—Tennessee and Arkansas Contribute to the Relief of the Beleaguered Town.

MEMPHIS, August 11.—A Helena (Ark.) special says: Considerable fighting was going on in Austin last night between the [illegible] and United States troops. The latter captured a body of 40 [illegible], and while they were putting the prisoners in the Court House one of them in [illegible] to escape was killed and another was wounded. Subsequently, large bodies of negroes advanced from the south and attacked the town and the Court House guard, but were repulsed with a loss of several [illegible] and wounded.

ST. [illegible] DISPATCH.—Major Chambers has arrived here to charter a boat and take assistance to the whites in Austin. He says a courier from Mayor Woodson of Austin reached Hernando at daylight, stating that the town was surrounded by about 1,000 negroes and asking for help. About 2,000 men from Hernando and vicinity will be here at 2 o'clock, and in company with volunteers from this city will start for Austin.

The Co[illegible] of the Disturbance

D. Smith, who is the unfortunate cause of the troubles in Austin, reached here last night. Some three weeks since, he was attacked in the streets of Austin by a negro and drawing a pistol fired at him but missed him and killed a little negro girl, which so exasperated the negroes that they collected in a mob and took Dr. Smith into the woods to hang him, which they would have done but for the entrances of Mayor Woodson and the doctor's wife. Since that time he has been a voluntary inmate of the jail to prevent being mobbed until last Friday, when some friends came and carried him to Hernando. On learning which the negroes collected in large numbers and notified the Mayor that unless the doctor was [illegible] back and put in jail they would burn the town.

MEMPHIS, August 11.—Excitement about the Austin troubles is increasing. The steamer White left here with 300 armed men this afternoon for the scene of trouble. A large number have also gone by land.

[illegible] of the [illegible]

MEMPHIS, Tenn., August 12.—An Avalanche Helena special says eight or ten negroes were killed in the fight at Austin yesterday. They are still gathering, but probably the whites can hold out till help comes.

The Negroes Capture and Occupy the Town.

[illegible] arrived by steamer this morning state that the negroes occupied Austin at 2 P. M. yesterday. Captain Lee says a story is circulated that after [illegible] received a repulse the negroes began the murder of women and children on neighboring plantations. Troops having been sent out from the city [illegible] these [illegible] families the negroes [illegible] the town and proceeded to break open stores and saloons and pillage the town. They had committed no [illegible] against the whites up to [illegible] but had made threats to kill a large number. It is proper to state that politics had nothing to do with this trouble and that Mayor Woodson and others whom the negroes proscribe are Republicans. A landing has been effected at Shoo Fly. Th[illegible] done contrary to the advice of C[illegible] Mor[illegible] that officer resigned the command and Chalmers is elected in his place.

Later from the Seat of War

M[illegible]IS, August 1[illegible].—The following has just been received from H[illegible]:

T[illegible] H. Allen & Co.: Send us reinforcements by steamer [illegible] Send guns with fixed ammunition if possible. Send rations for ten days for 500 men.

J. R. CHALMERS.

[illegible] which it would seem that General Chalmers had [illegible] not to attack to-day.

M[illegible]IS, August 12.—A Helena dispatch says [illegible] this morning who were part of the force sent from here [illegible] excited and the officials [illegible] board the steamer Trader for Austin.

[illegible] A[illegible] of the [illegible]

MEMPHIS, A[illegible] 12.—The following has just been [illegible]

[illegible] Campbell [illegible]: You are requested and authorized by me to suppress the riot at Austin to the end that peace may be restored and life saved.
(Signed) A. AMES, Governor.

Col. Campbell goes to Austin immediately.

All Quiet on the Mississippi

MEMPHIS, August 1[illegible].—Unfounded rumors to the effect that whites had been killed at Austin, etc., make the excitement intense. A call for arms, men and artillery is posted in the street. Specials say from 300 to 400 men landed [illegible] marched into Austin this morning but found only about thirty [illegible] mostly non-combatants. Only eight men were arrested. Everything was quiet there at last account.

A P[illegible] Prize-F[illegible]

PITTSBURG, August 11.—The Collier-Edwards prize fight occurred here this afternoon. The men went into the ring at 2:20 [illegible] Up to 4 o'clock eight rounds had been fought, the first of which was won by Collier and the second by Edwards, who knocked Collier down in the second round. Collier responded similarly in the eighth round. Betting was [illegible] in favor of Edwards. Collier gave up the fight at the eleventh round.

Meeting of Railroad Magnates in New York City.

NEW YORK, August 12.—At [illegible] meeting [illegible] to-day, [illegible] J. Jewett of the Erie, T. A. Scott of the Pennsylvania Central, William H. Vanderbilt of the New York Central, [illegible] of the Boston and Albany, W. K. Miner of the Canada Great Western and others were present. The meeting was secret and its object was a discussion of the matter of a revision of [illegible] It is understood that another meeting will be held soon for the regulation of all questions relating to passengers.

P[illegible] between Chili and the Argentine Republic.

NEW YORK, August 12.—A South American letter says the Senate of the Argentine Republic has resolved to [illegible] the question of their [illegible] to arbitration. The probable arbitrators are President Grant, for the Republic, and the Emperor of Brazil for Chili, and the third man will be the King of Belgium, [illegible] the others disagree.

Miscellaneous News

NEW YORK, August 11.—On searching the trunk of VanEten, the forger, who committed suicide about a week ago, a $1,000 bond of the Fond Du Lac Railroad was found, which on inquiry proved to have been stolen from the residence of A. O. Burson about ten months ago.

CHICAGO, August 11.—A Washington special says prominent postoffice officials state that the contractors for the new postal cards have furnished an inferior [illegible] Department [illegible] compelled them to comply with the terms of the contract.

WASHINGTON CITY.

American Officers Meddling in Oriental Affairs.

WASHINGTON, August 12.—The participation of certain officers in the United States service in movements [illegible] the inhabitants of the Island of Formosa, is likely to cause some embarrassment between our Government and China. The latter claims jurisdiction of [illegible] of Formosa and its people and any proceedings on the part of American citizens of an unfriendly or belligerent character against the Island is a violation of neutrality.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Marshal Bazaine Escapes from his Prison

PARIS, August 11.—There is great excitement in the city in consequence of intelligence that Marshal Bazaine escaped from the Island of St. Marguerite some time during Sunday night. The details of the manner in which he succeeded in getting away are unknown, except that he used a rope ladder, and got on board a vessel bound for Italy.

More about Marshal B[illegible]'s E[illegible]pe

PARIS, August 12.—It is reported that Marshal Bazaine landed at San Relo and traveled by way of Turin to Basel. At the latter place he took a train to B[illegible], where he arrived at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning. It is believed that the rope found on the cliff on the Isle of St. Marguerite was suspended there to mislead the authorities as to the manner of [illegible] other way through the connivance of guards.

Le Soir states that Bazaine had given his parole not to leave the island and precautions were consequently relaxed. The sentry was withdrawn from the terrace every morning at 5 o'clock, it being considered unnecessary to keep him there after daylight. Two soldiers belonging to the garrison at the fort swear they saw the Marshal on the terrace at 10 Monday morning.

Rec[illegible]tion of the Spanish Republic De[illegible]

A second inquest in the case of broker W. B. Bourn is pending to-night. No verdict has been rendered yet.

The Montana brought 2[illegible]8 passengers and 1,014 tons of merchandise.

All the Sons of Temperance Societies are holding a social reunion at Holiday Hall to-night.

Interior California.

[illegible], August 11.—The District Council of [illegible] counties met at Grange Hall to-day. Delegates [illegible]. The proceedings were secret.

SALINAS, August 11.—The stage from Salinas to Monterey was robbed this afternoon by two highwaymen near Johnson's Dairy. The passengers were not molested but Wells, Fargo & Co.'s treasure box was demanded and passed out, when the robbers decamped with it. The box did not contain over $100. The men are described as one being short, thick set Mexican, the [illegible] tall and [illegible] American. Deputy Sheriff Graves started out with a horse upon receipt of the news, and a force was raised near the half way house on the road to aid in the capture.

SAN BUENAVENTURA, August 12.—A local option election will take place on Friday the 14th, including San Buenaventura and Ventura township. Both sides are working briskly. A lively time is anticipated.

BAKERSFIELD, August 12.—Hon. Wm. M. Stewart, T. W. Park, H. A. Jones and other prominent capitalists returned from Panamint to-day on their way to San Francisco. They expressed themselves pleased with the indications of the mines.

The Bakersfield and Lone Pine stage upset on a mountain between here and Havilah yesterday. No serious damage.

Burt and Sheriff Taylor were arrested last night for alleged [illegible], with [illegible] bail, a man named Belding, on election day.

NEVADA.

CARSON, August 12.—A serious accident occurred here this evening about 4 o'clock which has proved fatal to one man and several others are seriously injured. It appears the men were running a flat car down the track from the round house to the depot and the chain on the brake got twisted in such a shape that the men could not turn the brake, and the car got the start of them. When the car got nearly opposite the mint it struck another flat car loaded with timbers. The timbers flew back ward striking a man named McMynn on the head, cutting a gash about three inches long. McMynn lived one hour after the accident occurred. Another man named Anderson, who was also badly injured, is lying in a critical condition. Three or four others were injured, but not fatally.

BY [illegible]

SALEM, August [illegible].—[illegible] Frown arrested and tried for robbing the safe of Wells, Fargo & Co. in this city was acquitted to-day, the trial having lasted a portion of two days. Much interest has been manifested and the court room was crowded during the entire trial. It is impossible to give a summary of the evidence, but there appears to have been but little, if any, evidence on the part of the prosecution to substantiate the charge.

GENERAL MOVEMENT OF TROOPS.—The Alta of last Friday says: On Saturday morning, the steamer Ajax will take companies I and L, Fourth Artillery, from Alcatraz Island to Astoria en route to Sitka, Alaska. At Astoria they will be transferred to the steamer California, which will transport them to the point of destination. The two companies, I and L, are commanded by Captains Campbell and Field respectively, the former will take command of the Post. The two companies number nearly 110 men. They are to relieve companies C and D of the same regiment, who have been at that Post since Christmas 1872. The rule is to have troops at Sitka changed about every two years.

It may be remembered that companies F and I were the only troops in this harbor which were not sent to the Modoc campaign last year, having to guard a large number of military convicts at the prison on Alcatraz. It was not possible to send them there. The other companies of the Fourth Artillery and this city participated in the campaign.

Wednesday last company K came from the Presidio to Alcatraz and took post to relieve the departing troops of their garrison duties. Company D, same regiment, now at Sitka, on arrival here will also take post on the Island. Until that time a detachment of one Sergeant and thirty men of companies A and M from the Presidio will in addition to K company be sent on Saturday, the 8th inst., to Alcatraz to perform the duties.

Major Morgan, Fourth Artillery, who has been in command of Alcatraz Island since November 1872, still remains and does not accompany the departing troops.

GONE TO CONSULT WITH THE BEECHER COMMITTEE.—Ossian E. Dodge, the hero of St. Paul's great scandal last year, having recently converted all his property into cash or negotiable securities, left the city (St. Paul, Minn.) on Sunday evening, taking his youngest children and leaving his wife, who was absent for a few days, expecting on her return to accompany him East. He has amply arranged for her support in St. Paul, and while it is conjectured he has planned to leave her, pretending [illegible], after the [illegible] of last year solely to have and dispose of the property, it is but fair to say that more sympathy and good will were expressed for him the day he left than in all the time since his domestic troubles became public.

LETTER FROM "NORTHWEST."

[FROM OUR TRAVELING CORRESPONDENT.]

SALEM, August 11, 1874.

During the last few days the weather has been cloudy, followed by occasional light showers, not sufficient to do any harm to the wheat crop, but enough to arrest heading, mowing and threshing. The farmers are all at the [illegible] of duty either in the harvest fields or waiting with anxiety till the heavy clouds and threatening rain have passed away. While it is a busy time with farmers it is a dull period with storekeepers, the latter are generally leaving for the centers of wholesale business to [illegible] goods for the fall trade.

To the close observer and those who can see some distance into the future development of the resources of the State,

OREGON CITY

And its surroundings present matter for favorable consideration and deep reflection. The building of the canal and locks at the Willamette Falls laid the foundation for the emancipation of the Willamette valley, secured cheap transportation and enhanced the value of all the material interests to the head of navigation. The emancipation will be consummated when the farmers, millers, merchants and [illegible] on the sham efforts of subsidized Congressmen and Senators and the action of corrupt politicians, who insulted the people of the valley by voting $7,500 to clear the upper part of the river [illegible] will unite their efforts and contributions and remove the obstructions that prevent navigation during the summer and fall months, thereby saving all the outlay the last season by the reduction in freight charges [illegible] market in consequence of the removal of these obstructions. By their prompt [illegible] and liberal action, under such a leader as Captain Smith, who showed such marked ability and energy in building the Canal and Locks, demonstrate that the river can be cleared to Albany by the 1st of October. By such prompt and [illegible] the true spirit of independence their determination to [illegible] united co-operation in place of relying on venal politicians and waiting on paltry subsidies that are scarcely enough to supply the stealings of corrupt officials. With the river cleared [illegible] direct communication [illegible] the Eastern and Western States, the water power at Oregon City will [illegible] three mills and two or three machine shops, the banks of the river on both sides will be [illegible] driven by water equal to a million [illegible] period and Oregon City flour mills making the best of flour, the Wooden Ware Manufacturing [illegible] blankets, cassimeres and other [illegible] the sawmill and machine shops doing the [illegible] this manufacturing is not a tithe of what will [illegible] splendid water power at these falls.

[illegible]

Is making steady and satisfactory progress in population and wealth. It has many advantages that guarantee its future greatness, being the Capital of the State it will always be a center of intelligence and power. Its valuable water power makes it an important place for the manufacture of woolen goods, flour, agricultural implements, builder house finishing, furniture and machinery. Its educational institutions are constantly attracting the best class of families as permanent residents. The city is the center of an extensive and rich agricultural district, studded with [illegible] well cultivated farms, fine dwelling and office houses [illegible] by persevering industry and good [illegible]. The [illegible] the leading families maintain a high standard of refined cultivation and moral virtues. The business men are enterprising and successful. A new industry [illegible] this season by

MESSRS. SMITH BROTHERS,

Two young men from Londonderry, in the north of Ireland, by raising flax for the fibre as well as for the seed. If their experiment succeeds it will be a most valuable addition to the profitable industries of the State. They rented 100 acres of land in the neighborhood of Salem and sowed it with flax. The season has been very favorable, and the crop has matured to their entire satisfaction. They have erected a two-story flax mill at the Penitentiary 90x60 feet, and it is now in successful operation, being the pioneer or first mill of the kind in Oregon or the Pacific coast. These young men have the important advantage of a thorough knowledge of the business in all its departments and the soil and climate being admirably adapted for the raising of flax account for the success of the first experiment. Flax has been raised extensively in the Willamette valley for years simply for the seed but never for the fibre, the most valuable part of the plant. What the farmers of Oregon burn or cast away as worthless these enterprising young men intend to utilize and turn into gold.

The process of manufacturing flax is interesting. When ripe it is pulled by the roots—Smith Brothers have 40 men employed at present pulling—bound in bundles, hauled to the mill, the top end passed through a roller that takes off the seed, the seed in due time is cleaned like wheat or oats and made ready for market. The flax is put into vats of water and heavy weights put on it and kept there for ten or fourteen days according to circumstances. The object of this steeping is to rot the straw of the plant so that in the action of scutching the fibre will readily separate from the strawy part of the plant. When the flax is sufficiently long in the steep it is taken out, spread in the field to dry, when dry it is gathered in bundles like sheaves of oats, hauled to the mill, put through rollers to soften the stalks, so as to make it easy work for the scutchers to whom it is transferred where the important process is gone through of separating the fibre from the plant. All that is now required to make the flax ready for spinning is the process of hackling, that process leaves nothing but the pure fibre. What is separated by the hackling process is called tow, it is thoroughly cleaned and makes a good tow yarn for a coarser and cheaper cloth than is manufactured from the pure flax. Smith Brothers do not intend hackling or finishing the flax at present, but will bale and ship the flax when scutched to the Irish, English or Scotch markets, the great centers of the linen trade and where the demand is unlimited and the profits remunerative. The linen trade of the United Kingdom of Great Britain lays the civilized globe under contributions for supplies of flax to meet their wants. So much is this the case that if the Willamette valley was one vast field of flax and the entire production shipped to Europe it would scarcely be felt on the market. In the manufacture of flax everything is turned to profitable account, from the water in which it is steeped that makes the richest manure, to the most inferior refuse in the act of finishing. In the opinion of the writer, one acre of flax properly managed would pay better than four acres of wheat. We look forward to the day when flax will be extensively cultivated in Oregon, its entire production dressed, spun into yarn and manufactured in the State into fine linen to adorn the persons of her industrious sons and beautiful daughters. From these considerations Smith Brothers are entitled to the gratitude and friendship of all good citizens for their enterprising spirit, and best wishes for their complete success. It must not be overlooked that while any good farmer can raise flax, it requires considerable experience, unceasing attention and good judgment in every part of the process of finishing from the steeping until it is ready for the spinning machine.

THE WHEAT CROP

Is very promising in the Willamette valley, and will be the largest yield in the history of Oregon. Light showers during the last few days have retarded harvesting a little, but no injury has been done. The Salem Flour Mill Company have commenced buying small lots of wheat at 70 cents a bushel, but the majority of farmers will hold for 75 cents as the minimum price. The expectation is that it will reach 80 or 85 cents a bushel. Formerly the merchants and warehousemen made the price for the wheat; the farmers say that day is past; we will put the price on our wheat; if you the merchants give so much you can have it; if not, it remains with us for the present. Formerly the shippers and the warehouse men combined to control the market; now the farmers are organized, and they say, we will have a fair price for our wheat or you can't get it. Formerly a few leading shippers controlled the chartering of vessels, for which they paid a high rate at the expense of the farmer; the farmers having now the control of their wheat, think the former and present charterers of vessels will get their fingers burned, and will quit chartering at extravagant rates, and ship owners knowing that there is plenty of wheat in Oregon and California, will send their vessels here and [illegible], knowing that cargoes are certain at fair rates. Thus the revolution [illegible] business goes on in favor of fair competition and honorable dealing as opposed to [illegible] and in favor of producers.

THE SALEM FLOURING MILL COMPANY

Are building a large two-story warehouse in the rear of their mill, 60 by 100 feet. The lower story is designed for wheat, and will hold [illegible] bushels, the [illegible] for flour with a capacity of 15,000 barrels. This company [illegible] well with the [illegible] as honorable buyers, and [illegible] markets as first-class manufacturers of flour, and reliable men. Those who build up [illegible] fortunes, and who leave a good name behind them are men who live and let live, while the purely selfish are [illegible] when dead.

Mr. J. M. [illegible] is preparing to build a two story [illegible] on the margin of the river, 40 by 60 feet, that will hold 25,000 bushels of wheat.

THE SHEEP BUSINESS

In the Willamette Valley is making headway, particularly in raising thoroughbred sheep for sale. Salem may be fairly considered the central point of this profitable business. Mr. John Minto, Mr. T. L. Davidson, Dr. Thomas Cross and Rev. J. L. Parrish take first place [illegible] others in this department. The large [illegible] farmers [illegible] more or less every year buying up thoroughbred sheep to improve their flocks. Mr. Minto and Mr. Davidson have [illegible] of this year's spring bucks—the former [illegible] and American merinos, and the [illegible] at $35 a head. These are [illegible] for fine [illegible] that [illegible] much [illegible] the choicest [illegible]. Mr. Minto's and Mr. [illegible] pounds to the fleece, and the [illegible] their two and three year old bucks will average fifteen pounds. Contrast these statements with the fact that the average fleece of common stock sheep does not exceed four pounds. The average fleece of the merinos will bring $2 75 while that of the common sheep will only sell for $1, making a difference in the value of the six months lambs of $23 50, and in the fleece of sheep of $1 75. Mr. A. J. Van Horn, on the John Day river, purchased a lot of Mr. Minto's thoroughbred lambs yesterday, at $35. He [illegible] that by the introduction of some good blood into his flock of 2,000 sheep he has raised the average weight of his fleeces from four to six pounds. He reports that by the judicious use of tobacco and sulphur he has driven the scab entirely from his range. The sheep men of Douglas county and some other portions of the State where good sheep are scarce and where the scab [illegible] prevails, would do well to note these facts and act accordingly.

Three boys, "tramps," bound for Denver, appeared at Wallace station Friday, and were fed and lodged by A. L. De[illegible], the trader at that point. After being hospitably treated, free of charge, they stole a couple of navy revolvers and "pulled out" down the road. They were overhauled and [illegible] to Wallace, taken to a barn, tied, and each one made to whip the other with a stout [illegible] whip. Then they were released and told to "go west and grow up with the mountains."

Professor Hayden is now engaged, with some of his assistants, in making special geological examinations along the foothills and in the red sandstone formations in the vicinity of Manitou and the Garden of Gods, for the purpose of determining more definitely the true character and age of those formations, about which there has heretofore been more or less doubt. The formations in that locality are quite uncertain as to age, as there are few or no fossils at all by which their antiquity may be determined.

An English thief, forgetting, as Canon Kingsley said, that Denver was the passage city, or what was destined to be the most travelled highway in the world, reached there the other day, thinking to elude, by so doing, the detective who was after him. He was a soldier, Otis Griswold by name, who had served in the British army in India and the Crimea. His crime was snatching a large amount in bonds from the counter of a Liverpool bank, after which he took passage for New York. The detective followed him on the next [illegible] and traced him to Chicago, St. Louis and Omaha, and thence to Denver, but without succeeding in catching up with him. From there he is supposed to have lost himself in the wilds of New Mexico, although some of his bonds found their way to San Francisco where they were received. The detective is now on his way to Liverpool, a sadder and a wiser man.

UTTERLY HOPELESS.—There is no longer any use in trying to convince the political Bourbon [that] the world moves. He will not be convinced, because the only world he is conscious of begins and ends in himself. He knows that he is a "Democrat." He knows that the two articles of his unchangeable creed are "For the spoils" and "Against the damn nigger," and there[illegible] he knows that these are the two articles in the creed of every Democrat. There is no use in wasting time on this rock-too-old and mountain buttressed type of animal. He will live as long as he can breathe and will die then and [illegible].

IRELAND UNDER ENGLISH RULE.—The Dublin Freeman's Journal has the following:

Among recently [illegible] Parliamentary papers is a return [illegible] by Mr. [illegible] specifying the [illegible] which are now [illegible] under the [illegible] Preservation acts. The list is indeed a [illegible] able one. It includes the whole of the counties of Antrim, Armagh, Carlow, Cavan, Clare, Cork, Dublin, Galway, Kerry, Kilkenny, King's County, Leitrim, Limerick, Louth, Mayo, Meath, Monaghan, Queen's County, Roscommon, Sligo, Tipperary, Waterford, Westmeath, Wexford and Wicklow, or twenty five out of the thirty two counties into which Ireland is divided. The list also includes Dublin, Cork, Belfast, Galway and most of the principal cities and towns in the island; in a word, at the present moment about nine-tenths of this island is proclaimed. At a period when the country is profoundly peaceful, tranquil, calm, tending rather to lethargy than to excitement, our rulers confess that they cannot carry on the Government of the country without maintaining in Ireland a coercion code more absurdly severe than the Second Empire ever dreamed of enforcing. By such a fact let English government in Ireland be judged and condemned. In this country, in a time of absolute peace, the state of siege is maintained—the most crass and brutal form of government in the world.

"NOTHING EXTRAORDINARY."—Col. Stuart, of the British army, in a book entitled "Reminiscences of a Soldier," tells this anecdote: When a subaltern at Gibraltar, he was one day on guard with [illegible], who unfortunately fell [illegible] four hundred feet high and was killed. My non military readers should understand that in the guard reports there is a small addendum, viz: "N. B.—Nothing extraordinary since guard mounting," the meaning of which is that in case anything particular should occur, the officer commanding the guard is [illegible] to mention it. Our friend, however, said nothing about the accident that had occurred to his brother officer; and some hours after the brigade Major came to his quarters, on the part of the officer com[illegible] in his hand to d[illegible] and an explanation. The brigade Major addressing him, said, "You say, sir, in your report 'N. B. No[illegible] extraordinary since guard mounting,' when your brother officer, on duty with you, has fallen down a precipice four hundred feet high, and been killed." "Well sir," replied B[illegible], "I don't think there's anything extraordinary in it at all; if he'd fallen down a precipice four hundred feet high and not been killed I should have thought it [illegible] and [illegible] put it down in my report." [illegible] the brigade Major's hair must have [illegible] end while he [illegible] to this cool reply.

FRANK MOULTON'S STATEMENT

You Can't Have It—and the whole Nasty Business may go into History as a Hallucination on the Part of Everybody but Beecher

NEW YORK, August 11.—There is great dissatisfaction [illegible] the draft of the Beecher scandal. The [illegible] Moulton's statement creates much [illegible] comment and there is a belief that a compromise [illegible]. The Argus says it is certain [illegible] Mrs Tilton is prepared to state that she has [illegible] laboring under a hallucination, that Beecher [illegible] to resign his pastorate, that the society [illegible] refuse to accept his resignation, and Tilton [illegible] upon these conditions again open the doors [illegible] to his wife.

[illegible] that the Committee and [illegible] it will keep Moulton's [illegible] proceedings were [illegible] or kept [illegible].

[illegible] interviews with Moulton [illegible] subsequently [illegible] who [illegible] Beecher.

The Committee in Search of Something Bearing Heavily against Tilton

Brooklyn Eagle of this afternoon says Moulton with his statement to the Committee handed [illegible] copies of documents quoted in Tilton's communication. It appears from a hurried comparison made by the Committee that Tilton in quoting the documents arranged them to suit himself. In some cases where only part of a document is quoted, various significant passages are omitted. In one case a letter is divided by Tilton, and made to seem as if there were two letters, apparently for the purpose of cumulating testimony. The Committee look on these changes as very significant and as bearing heavily against Tilton.

The Knowing Individual, F. M., will Defend his Honor with his Documents

M[illegible] was briefly cross-examined and being on [illegible] the same position. He reiterated what appeared in his statement, that if any attempt were made [illegible] his position as a friend of both parties [illegible] question of his honor he might be under the necessity of making a further statement. For the present he contented himself with furnishing the Committee with exact copies of documents quoted by him.

Report that Mr Beecher has Confessed

[illegible] publishes a story that Beecher has made a confession to his counsel [illegible] two members of the Committee, that is very disheartening to them [illegible] the Committee have decided to continue the investigation. They, however, have changed their wish for a publication of Moulton's full statement and have urged him to withhold most of it [illegible] only such points as have already been made public. This advice coincided with General Butler's, and he has revised his already prepared and voluminous statement.

The Committee sitting to-night examined two unknown witnesses and adjourned soon after. The Committee [illegible] as non-committal as ever. It is confidently [illegible] that Mr Beecher's statement will not be published till a full report be made. It is not known when [illegible] names will yet appear or when any examination will be made.

The Conscientious Moulton.

NEW YORK, August 11.—The Brooklyn Eagle this afternoon has the following: Moulton's statement is [illegible] brief, making not more than fifteen [illegible] pages not closely written. Moulton says in substance, that all he knows about the difficulty between Beecher and Tilton was intrusted to him [illegible], with all the documents he has been furnished relating directly or indirectly to the case; that these documents were intrusted to him [illegible] confidence. He says that he has known Tilton since 18[illegible], and that he became personally acquainted with Beecher in 18[illegible] through [illegible]. Notwithstanding the fact that he has the consent of both Beecher and Tilton to tell all he knows about the case and to furnish all documents he has in relation to it, and the additional fact that he has been twice summoned before the Committee, he says he cannot in conscience and as a man of honor disclose any confidences which have been placed in him. He came into the case as a peacemaker to settle it and all that he has done has been in that direction.

The Eagle Att[illegible]y to the Front

No new developments in the Beecher case. Shearman will view Moulton's testimony unreservedly [illegible] reports that it will criminate (Beecher ?) in the case and that his only motive for silence hitherto [illegible] which speaking out would show him blameless was generous regard for others. He cites Dr Edward Beecher's note regarding Mrs Hooker as disclosing one of several closet skeletons for which the [illegible] is not responsible. Sympathizers with Beecher are jubilant under [illegible] unequivocal declaration that he will come out clear as crystal.

What Moult[illegible] Said to a Chicago Tribune Correspondent.

NEW YORK, August 12.—The Brooklyn Argus says Moulton [illegible] to a correspondent of the Chicago Tribune that Beecher's course had been one of treachery and lying; that Beecher has confessed to Moulton criminality with Mrs. Tilton; that Tilton has [illegible] burning love letters from Beecher; that Mrs Tilton wrote to Beecher, "We must meet soon and get consolation."

[illegible] again scouts the thought of compromising [illegible] paving stones blossom into roses.

One of Moulton's Relatives "Hacked" by an Interviewer.

A [illegible] of Moulton says Frank [illegible] before the Committee [illegible] the letters referred to in the Tilton statement. He declined [illegible] that only those specially [illegible] by the Committee's request he [illegible] for [illegible]. This informant neither asserts nor denies that there were other letters, but an interviewer [illegible] him indirectly to understand that their non-production leaves the matter in such shape that Beecher's reputation will be saved, Mr Tilton's preserved and Theodore [illegible].

THE WAR OF RACES

Serious Riot in Austin, Miss—1,000 Negroes Capture the Town—Reports of Gross Outrages—Tennessee and Arkansas Contribute to the Relief of the Beleaguered Town.

MEMPHIS, August 11.—A Helena (Ark.) special says considerable fighting was going on in Austin last night between negroes and United States troops. The [illegible] captured a body of 20 negroes and while they were putting the prisoners in the Court House one of them in attempting to escape was killed and another was wounded. Subsequently, large bodies of negroes advanced from the south and attacked the town and the Court House guard, but were repulsed with a loss of several killed and wounded.

[illegible] Major Chambers has arrived here [illegible] chartered a boat and take assistance to the whites in Austin. He says a courier from Mayor Woodson, of Austin, reached Hernando at daylight [illegible] that the town was surrounded by about 1,000 negroes and asking for help. About 200 men from Hernando and vicinity will be here at [illegible] and the company with volunteers from the city will start for Austin.

The Cause of the Disturbance

[illegible] Smith, who is the unfortunate cause of the trouble at Austin, reached here last night. Some three weeks since he was attacked in the streets of Austin by a negro and drawing a pistol fired at him, but missed him and killed a little negro girl, which [illegible] the negroes that they collected [illegible] and took Dr Smith [illegible] would have done but for the [illegible] of Mayor Woodson and the [illegible]. Since that time he has been a voluntary inmate of the jail to prevent being mobbed until Friday, when some friends came and carried him off. After [illegible] learning which the negroes collected in large numbers and notified the Mayor that unless the Doctor was brought back and put in jail they would burn the town.

MEMPHIS, August 11.—Excitement about the Austin troubles is increasing. The steamer White left here with 100 armed men this afternoon for the seat of trouble. A large number have also gone by [illegible].

Loss of the Negroes

MEMPHIS, Tenn., August 12.—An Austin special says eight or ten negroes were killed in the [illegible] at Austin yesterday. They are still [illegible] but probably the whites can hold out till help comes.

The Negroes Capture and Occupy the Town

[illegible] arrived by steamer this morning state that the negroes occupied Austin at 2 P. M. yesterday. [illegible] says a story is circulated that after receiving a repulse the negroes began the [illegible] of women and children in neighboring plantations [illegible] having been sent in from the country [illegible] these unprotected families [illegible] the town and proceeded to break open [illegible] had committed no outrages against the whites at last accounts. [illegible] made threats to [illegible] large number [illegible] proper to state that politics [illegible] this trouble, and that Mayor Woodson, [illegible] whom the negroes proscribe, a Republican. A landing has been effected at Shoo Fly. The [illegible] the contrary to the [illegible] Mayor [illegible] resigned, the [illegible] Clerk is elected in his place.

Later from the Seat of War.

[illegible] August 12.—The following has just been received from Helena:

[illegible] Send us reinforcements by steamer Francis. Send guns with fixed ammunition [illegible] possible. Send rations for [illegible] 100 men.

J. L. CHALMERS.

[illegible] which it would seem that General Chalmers had decided not to attack to-day.

[illegible] August 12.—A Helena dispatch says: "About twenty-[illegible] arrived at the hotel here this morning who were part of the force sent from here to Austin. The [illegible] became excited and the officials [illegible] them on board the steamer Trade for Austin."

Gov. Ames [illegible] a Suppression of the Riot.

MEMPHIS, August 12.—The following has just been received:

"[illegible] authorized by me to suppress the riot at Austin, to the end that peace may be restored [illegible]

(Signed) A. AMES, Governor.

C. Campbell, Post Adjutant [illegible]"

All Quiet on the Mississippi

MEMPHIS, August 12.—[illegible] that no [illegible] have been [illegible] at Austin to make the excitement intense. [illegible] men and artillery is posted in the street. Specials say from 300 to 400 men landed [illegible] but [illegible] Austin this evening, but found all about thirty negroes, mostly non-combatants. Only eight men were arrested. Everything was quiet there at last account.

Marshal Bazaine Escapes from his Prison

PARIS, August 11.—There is great excitement in the city in consequence of intelligence that Marshal Bazaine escaped from the Island of St. Marguerite some time during Sunday night. The details of the manner in which he succeeded in getting away are unknown, except that he used a rope ladder and got on board a vessel bound for Italy.

More about Marshal Bazaine's Escape.

PARIS, August 12.—It is reported that Marshal Bazaine landed at San Remo and traveled by way of Turin to Basel. At the latter place he took a train to Brussels, where he arrived at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning. It is believed that the rope found on the cliff on the Isle of St. Margarite was suspended there to mislead the authorities as to the manner of the Marshal's escape, which was effected in some other way through the connivance of guards.

Le Soir states that Bazaine had given his parole not to leave the Island and precautions were consequently relaxed. The sentry was withdrawn from the terrace every morning at 5 o'clock, it being considered unnecessary to keep him there after daylight. Two soldiers belonging to the garrison at the [illegible] say they saw the Marshal on the terrace at 10 Monday morning.

SALEM, August 12.—B. F. Brown, arrested and tried for robbing the safe of Wells, Fargo & Co. in this city, was acquitted to-day, the trial having lasted a portion of two days. Much interest has been manifested and the court room was crowded during the entire trial. It is impossible to give a summary of the evidence, but there appears to have been but little, if any, evidence on the part of the prosecution to substantiate the charge.

GENERAL MOVEMENT OF TROOPS.—The Alta of last Friday says: On Saturday morning the steamer Ajax will take companies I and L, Fourth Artillery, from Alcatraz Island to Astoria en route to Sitka, Alaska. At Astoria they will be transferred to the steamer [illegible], which will transport them to the point of destination. The two companies, I and L, are commanded by Captains Campbell and Field respectively; the former will take command of the Post. The two companies number nearly 110 men. They are to relieve companies F and D, [illegible] same regiment, who have been at that Post since Christmas, 1872. The rule is to have troops at Sitka changed every two years.

It may be remembered that companies F and D were the only troops in this harbor which were not sent to the Modoc campaign last year, having to guard a large number of military convicts at the prison on Alcatraz. It was not possible to send them there. The other companies of the Fourth Artillery [illegible] city participated in that campaign.

Wednesday last company K came from the Presidio to Alcatraz and took post to relieve the departing troops of their garrison duties. Company D, same regiment, now at Sitka, on arrival here will also take post on the Island. Until that time a detachment of one Sergeant and thirty men of companies A and M from the Presidio will [illegible] be sent on Saturday [illegible] to Alcatraz to perform the duties.

Major Morgan, Fourth Artillery, who has been in command of Alcatraz [illegible] November, 1872, will remain and [illegible] accompany the departing troops.

GONE TO CONSULT WITH THE [illegible] COMMITTEE?—Ossian E. He has amply arranged for her support in St. Paul, and while it is conjectured he has planned to leave her, pretending reconciliation after the exposure of last year solely to have and dispose of the property, it is but fair to say that more sympathy and good will were expressed for him the day he left than in all the time since his domestic troubles became public.

LETTER FROM NORTHWEST

[FROM OUR TRAVELING CORRESPONDENT.]

SALEM, August 11, 1874.

During the last few days the weather has been cloudy, followed by occasional light showers, not sufficient to do any harm to the wheat crop, but enough to arrest heading, cutting and threshing. The farmers are all at the [illegible] of duty, either in the harvest fields or waiting with anxiety till the heavy clouds and threatening rain have passed away. While it is a busy time with farmers it is a dull period with storekeepers; the latter are generally leaving for the centers of wholesale business to lay in [illegible] for the fall trade.

[illegible] the [illegible] river and those who can see [illegible] the future development of the resources of the State.

OREGON CITY

And its surroundings present matter for favorable consideration and deep reflection. The building of the canal and locks at the Willamette Falls laid the foundation for the emancipation of the Willamette valley, secured cheap transportation and enhanced the value of all the material interests to the head of navigation. The emancipation will be consummated when the farmers, millers, merchants and steamboat companies, in place of waiting on the benefits of subsidized Congressmen and Senators, and the action of corrupt politicians, who insulted the people of the valley by voting $[illegible],000 to clear the upper part of the river 11 miles, will unite their efforts and contributions and remove the obstructions that prevent navigation during the summer and fall months, thereby saving all the outlay the first season by the reduction in freight charges and getting the wheat early to market in consequence of the removal of these obstructions. By their prompt, united and liberal action under such a leader as Captain Smith, who showed such marked ability and energy in building the Canal and Locks, demonstrate that the river can be cleared to Albany by the 1st of October. By such prompt and united effort they will manifest the true [illegible] of independence, their determination to depend in future on their own efforts and united co-operation, in place of relying on venal politicians, and waiting on paltry subsidies that are scarcely enough to supply the stealings of corrupt officials. With the river cleared of its bars and other obstructions, the East and West Side Railroads completed, and direct communication by railroad to the Eastern and Western States, the water power at Oregon City will not be confined to driving three mills and two or three machine shops; the banks of the river on both sides will be lined with mills, factories and work shops, driven by water equal to a million horse power. It is [illegible] to see the Imperial and Oregon City flour mills making the best of flour, the Wooden Ware Manufacturing Company supplying [illegible] with excellent tubs, buckets and washboards, the Woolen Manufacturing Company making choice blankets, cassimeres and other goods in their line, the sawmill and machine shops doing their part to meet the wants of the people; all this is a mere [illegible] of what will one day be put in operation by means of the [illegible] water power at these falls.

SALEM

Is making steady and satisfactory progress in population and wealth. It has many advantages that guarantee its future greatness. Being the Capital of the State it will always be a center of intelligence and power. Its valuable water power makes it an important place for the manufacture of woolen goods, flour, agricultural implements, [illegible], furniture and machinery. Its educational institutions are constantly attracting the best class of families as permanent residents. The city is the center of an extensive and rich agricultural district, studded with large well cultivated farms, fine dwellings and office houses, whose owners have grown rich by persevering industry and good habits. The masses of the people are well educated and the leading families maintain a high standard of refined cultivation and moral virtues. The business men are enterprising and successful. A new industry has been introduced this [illegible] only by

MESSRS SMITH BROTHERS

Two young men from Londonderry, in the north of Ireland, by raising flax for the fibre as well as for the seed. If their experiment succeeds it will be a most valuable addition to the profitable industries of the State. They rented 160 acres of land in the neighborhood of Salem and sowed it with flax. The season has been very favorable, and the crop has matured to their entire satisfaction. They have erected a two story flax mill at the [illegible] 30x[illegible] feet and it is now in successful operation, being the pioneer or first mill of the kind in Oregon, or the Pacific coast. These young men have the important advantage of a thorough knowledge of the business in all its departments, and the soil and climate being admirably adapted for the raising of flax [illegible] for the success of the first experiment. Flax has been raised extensively in the Willamette valley for years simply for the seed, but never for the fibre, the most valuable part of the plant. What the farmers of Oregon burn or cast away as worthless these enterprising young men intend to utilize and turn into gold.

The process of manufacturing flax is interesting. When ripe it is pulled by the roots—Smith Brothers have 40 men employed at present pulling—bound in bundles, hauled to the mill, the top end passed through a roller that takes off the seed; the seed in due time is cleaned like wheat or oats and made ready for market. The flax is put into vats of water and heavy weights put on it and kept there for ten or fourteen days according to circumstances. The object of this steeping is to rot the straw of the plant so that in the action of scutching the fibre will readily separate from the strawy part of the plant. When the flax is sufficiently long in the steep it is taken out, spread on the field to dry; when dry it is gathered in bundles like sheaves of oats, hauled to the mill, put through rollers to soften the stalks [illegible] to make it easy work for the scutchers, to whom it is transferred, where the important process is gone through of separating the fibre from the plant. All that is now required to make the flax ready for spinning is the process of hackling; that process leaves nothing but the pure fibre. What is separated by the hackling process is called tow; it is thoroughly cleaned and makes a good tow yarn for a coarser and cheaper cloth than is manufactured from the pure flax. Smith Brothers do not intend hackling or finishing the flax at present, but will bale and ship the flax when scutched to the Irish, English or Scotch markets, the great centers of the linen trade, and where the demand is unlimited and the profits remunerative. The linen trade of the United Kingdom of Great Britain lays the civilized globe under contribution for supplies of flax to meet their wants. [illegible] this the case that if the Willamette valley was one vast field of flax and the entire production shipped to Europe, it would scarcely be felt on the market. In the manufacture of flax everything is turned to profitable account, from the water in which it is steeped, that makes the best manure, to the most inferior refuse in the act of finishing. In the opinion of the writer one acre of flax [illegible] managed would pay better than four acres of wheat. We look forward to the day when flax will be extensively cultivated in Oregon, its entire production dressed, spun into yarn and manufactured in the State into fine linen to adorn the persons of her industrious sons and beautiful daughters. From these considerations Smith Brothers are entitled to the gratitude and friendship of all good citizens for their enterprising spirit, and best wishes for their complete success. It must not be overlooked that while any good farmer can raise flax, it requires considerable experience, unceasing attention and good judgment in every part of the process of handling, from the steeping until it is ready for the spinning machine.

THE WHEAT CROP

Is very promising in the Willamette valley, and will be the largest yield in the history of Oregon. Light showers during the last few days have retarded harvesting a little, but no injury has been done. The Salem Flour Mill Company have commenced buying small lots of wheat at 70 cents a bushel, but the majority of farmers will hold for 75 cents as the minimum price, the expectation is that it will reach 80 or 85 cents a bushel. Formerly the merchants and warehousemen made the price for the wheat; the farmers say that day is past; we will put the price on our wheat; if you, the merchants, give so much you can have it; if not, it remains with us for the present. Formerly the shippers and the warehouse men combined to control the market; now the farmers are organized and they say, we will have a fair price for our wheat or you can't get it. Formerly a few leading shippers controlled the chartering of vessels, for which they paid a high rate at the expense of the farmer; the farmers have now the control of their wheat, think the former and present charterers of vessels will get their fingers burned and will quit chartering at extravagant rates, and ship owners, knowing the independency of wheat in Oregon and California, will send their vessels here and there of their own accord, knowing that cargoes are certain at fair rates. Thus the revolution in trade and business goes on in favor of fair competition and honorable dealing as opposed to injurious monopolies, and in favor of producers.

THE SALEM FLOURING MILL COMPANY

Are building a large two-story warehouse in the rear of their mill, 60 by 100 feet. The lower story is designed for wheat and will hold 60,000 bushels; the second story is intended for flour, with a capacity of 15,000 barrels. This company stands well with the farmers as honorable buyers, and in foreign markets as first-class manufacturers of flour, and reliable men. Those who build up permanent fortunes, and who leave a good name behind them, are men who live and let live, while the unduly selfish are despised while living and forgotten when dead.

Mr. J. M. Johns, of [illegible], is preparing to build a two story warehouse on the margin of the river, 40 by 60 feet, that will hold 30,000 bushels of wheat.

THE SHEEP BUSINESS

In the Willamette Valley is making headway, particularly in raising thoroughbred sheep for sale. Salem may be fairly considered the central point of this profitable business. Mr. John Minto, Mr. T. J. Davidson, Mr. Thomas Cross and Rev. J. L. Parrish take first places among others in this department. The large sheep farmers east of the Cascades are here more or less every week, buying up thoroughbred sheep to improve their flocks. Mr. Minto and Mr. Davidson have sold lots of this year's spring bucks—the former Spanish and American merinos, and the latter Spanish merinos—at $25 a head. These are considered low rates for this breed of lambs, yet how profitable compared with raising common sheep, that at the same age bring about $1 50, that eat as much grass and require about as much care as the choicest breeds. Mr. Minto's and Mr. Davidson's flocks of merino ewes will average nine pounds to the fleece, and the fleece of their two and three year old bucks will average fifteen pounds. Contrast these statements with the fact that the average fleece of common stock sheep does not exceed four pounds. The average fleece of the merinos will bring $2 75, while that of the common sheep will only sell for $1, making a difference in the value of the six months lambs of $2[illegible] 50, and in the fleece of sheep of $1 75. Mr. A. J. Van Horn, on the John Day river, purchased a lot of Mr. Minto's thoroughbred lambs yesterday at $25. He says that by the introduction of some good blood into his flock of 2,000 sheep he has raised the average weight of his fleeces from four to six pounds. He reports that by the judicious use of tobacco and sulphur he has driven the scab entirely from his range. The sheep men of Douglas county and some other portions of the State, where good sheep are scarce and where the scab disease prevails, would do well to note these facts and act accordingly.

THE TERRITORIES

Tooele county has got her Foot in the Utah Legislature.

R. C. McCormick, of Arizona, has declined a renomination as delegate to Congress.

The miners at Fairplay, Colorado, threaten to commence hanging if there is any more stealing of ore in that neighborhood.

Cochise, the late Chief of the Apaches, is credited with having slain twenty-seven Americans, four Apache Indians, three Germans, one Frenchman and forty-nine Mexicans and half breeds—in all eighty-seven persons.

Rufus Clark, of Denver, generally and popularly known as "Potato Clark," has 150 acres of potatoes which look well and will produce 25,000 to 30,000 bushels if the season is favorable. Mr. Clark has expended over $2,000 in preventing the ravages of the potato bug this year.

Three boy "tramps" bound for Denver appeared at Wallace station Friday, and were fed and lodged by A. L. Dodge, the trader at that point. After being hospitably treated free of charge they stole a couple of navy revolvers and "pulled out" down the road. They were overhauled and returned to Wallace, taken to a barn, tied, and each one made to whip the other with a stout mule whip. Then they were released and told to "go west" and grow up with the mountains.

Professor Hayden is now engaged with some of his assistants in making special geological examinations along the foothills and in the red sandstone formations in the vicinity of Manitou and the Garden of Gods, for the purpose of determining more definitely the true character and age of those formations, about which there has heretofore been more or less doubt. The formations in that locality are quite uncertain as to age, as there are few or no fossils at all by which their antiquity may be determined.

An English thief, forgetting, as Canon Kingsley said, that Denver was the passage city of what was destined to be the most traveled highway in the world, reached there the other day, thinking to elude, by so doing, the detective who was after him. He was a soldier, Otis Criswold by name, who had served in the British army in India and the Crimea. His crime was snatching a large amount in bonds from the counter of a Liverpool hotel, after which he took passage for New York. The detective followed him on the next steamer and traced him to Chicago, St. Louis and Omaha, and thence to Denver, but without succeeding in catching up with him. From there he is supposed to have lost himself in the wilds of New Mexico, although some of his bonds found their way to San Francisco, where they were received. The detective is now on his way to Liverpool, a sadder and a wiser man.

UTTERLY HOPELESS.—There is no longer any use in trying to convince the political Bourbon the world moves. He will not be convinced, because the only world he is conscious of begins and ends in himself. He knows that he is a "Democrat." He knows that the two articles of his unchangeable creed are "For the spoils" and "Against the damn nigger," and therefore he knows that these are the two articles in the creed of every Democrat. There is no use in wasting time on this rock-rooted and mountain-buttressed type of animal. He will live as long as he can breathe, and will die then under protest.

ASTERLY, MY DEAR BOY.—Not a great while ago, writes a New York correspondent, an English Lord and his wife were invited to dinner by Cyrus W. Field. A number of prominent citizens were also invited, and the meal began in silence. The lady had scarcely tasted her soup (she sat near Field and her husband opposite the host), when she screamed out, the full length of the table, "Asterly (I omit the real name), my dear boy, I say, now you won't like this soup. It's got tomato in it." "Indeed, my dear? Ah, why does any one use tomatoes? Really, now, they're horrid stuff, you know, Mr. F[illegible]d."

STRENGTH AND LOCATION OF THE ARMY

In view of the recent legislation of Congress reducing the army to a mere shadow, and the Indian outbreaks constantly occurring along our extended frontier, it becomes a matter of importance to know what disposition has been made of the military forces of the United States, and also to show what proportion are in the Indian country, in the Southern States, on the seaboard and on the Canadian and Mexican frontiers.

The following is an abstract of the return of troops and their location on June 30, 1874:

First Cavalry, 829 men—California, Oregon, Missouri, Idaho, Washington Territory and Nevada.

Second Cavalry, 860 men—Forts Sanders and Laramie, Camps Brown and Stambaugh, Wyoming Territory, and Fort Ellis, Montana.

Third Cavalry, 963 men—Fort D. A. Russel, Spotted Tail Agency, Fort Fetterman, Camp Robinson, Sydney Barracks and Fort McPherson, Nebraska.

Fourth Cavalry, 700 men—Texas.

Fifth Cavalry, 808 men—Department of the Missouri.

Sixth Cavalry, 875 men—Department of Arizona.

Seventh Cavalry, 893 men—Minnesota and Dakota.

Eighth Cavalry, 94[illegible] men—New Mexico and Colorado.

Ninth Cavalry, 767 men—Texas.

Tenth Cavalry, 964 men—Fort Sill, Indian Territory, and Concho, Griffen and Richardson, Texas.

First Artillery, 634 men; Second, 675 men; Third, 633 men; Fourth, 660 men; Fifth, 653 men—all on the seaboard.

First Infantry, 503 men—Department of Dakota.

Second Infantry, 504 men—Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee.

Third Infantry, 560 men—Department of the Gulf.

Fourth Infantry, 560 men—Wyoming and Utah.

Fifth Infantry, 591 men—Kansas and Indian Territory.

Sixth Infantry, [illegible]61 men—Dakota.

Seventh Infantry, 567 men—Montana.

Eighth Infantry, 585 men—Military Division of the Pacific.

Ninth Infantry, 552 men—Nebraska and Wyoming.

Tenth Infantry, [illegible]71 men—Texas.

Eleventh Infantry, 5[illegible]0 men—Texas and Indian Territory.

Twelfth Infantry, 507 men—California, Idaho, Nevada and Arizona.

Thirteenth Infantry, [illegible]76 men—Utah and Wyoming.

Fourteenth Infantry, 565 men—Wyoming and Nebraska.

Fifteenth Infantry, 591 men—Colorado and New Mexico.

Sixteenth Infantry, 594 men—Tennessee, Kentucky, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Seventeenth Infantry, [illegible]75 men—Dakota.

Eighteenth Infantry, 49[illegible] men—South Carolina and Georgia.

Nineteenth Infantry—Department of the Missouri.

Twentieth Infantry, 51[illegible] men—Minnesota and Dakota.

Twenty-first Infantry, 571 men—Washington Territory, Oregon and Idaho.

Twenty-second Infantry, 557 men—Division of the Atlantic.

Twenty-third Infantry, [illegible]75 men—Department of the Platte.

Twenty-fourth Infantry, 592 men—Texas.

Twenty-fifth Infantry, [illegible]61 men—Texas and Indian Territory.

Engineer Battalion, [illegible]37 men—Willett's Point, New York.

Total—29,646 men.

THE DEAD-BEATS AND THE CHICAGO FIRE.—At least one class of the population profited by the fire—the dead beats up town. One would rush into a saloon with his face smoky and dirty and cry: "Gimme some whisky, Dick. I tell you, gentlemen, this is a fire. I've been through a good many fires, but this is the boss scorcher. My throat's like a lime-kiln." Tweed or Law suburban resident of a simple and generous disposition: "So you've just come up? Take something?" Dead beat: "Don't mind if I do. Gimme some whisky, Dick." "Yes, sirree, just left it. When I think of Fourth avenue, the houses blowing up on all sides, people kiting up into the air, nigger babies roasting till the firemen had to put handkerchiefs up their noses—I tell you, gentlemen, it was just awful!" Barkeeper, his curiosity overcoming his habitual caution: "It must have been. What'll you have, Billy?" "Gimme some whisky, Dick! Awful! You better believe me. Whew! I see [illegible] Shore depot take, says I, Good-by, Chicago! But just then the wind shifted and I knew we was all right on this side. But I feel sorry for the Grand Pacific." Another Auditor: "The Pacific burned? Dear me! Ask the gentlemen what they will have." "Gimme some whisky, Dick. Yes, sir, the Pacific caught just as I left, and Dave Gage was then crying like a child. But that was nothing to," &c. One barkeeper on Madison, not very far from Wood, made audible resolves to close up and go down and see it at every yarn he heard, but business was so brisk he was loth to do so till about 1:30 Wednesday morning, when he heard that the Exposition building had been burned with a large and fashionable audience within it. With the [illegible] "Six hundred of em broiled! Great Nebuchadnezzar! I'll shut up and go."—Chicago Tribune.

IRELAND UNDER ENGLISH RULE.—The Dublin Freeman's Journal has the following:

Among recently published Parliamentary papers is a return (obtained by Mr. Butt) specifying the counties, cities and districts which are now "proclaimed" under the Peace Preservation acts. The list is indeed a formidable one. It includes the entire of the counties of Antrim, Armagh, Carlow, Cavan, Clare, Cork, Dublin, Galway, Kerry, Kilkenny, King's County, Leitrim, Limerick, Louth, Mayo, Meath, Monaghan, Queen's County, Roscommon, Sligo, Tipperary, Waterford, Westmeath, Wexford and Wicklow, or twenty-five out of the thirty-two counties into which Ireland is divided. The list also includes Dublin, Cork, Belfast, Galway and most of the principal cities and towns in the island; in a word, at the present moment about nine-tenths of this island is "proclaimed." At a period when the country is profoundly peaceful, tranquil, calm, tending rather to lethargy than to excitement, our rulers confess that they cannot carry on the Government of the country without maintaining in Ireland a coercion code more absurdly severe than the Second Empire ever dreamed of enforcing. By such a fact let English government in Ireland be judged and condemned. In this country, in a time of absolute peace, the state of siege is maintained—the most crass and brutal form of government in the world.

NOTHING EXTRAORDINARY.—Col. Stuart, of the British army, in a book entitled "Reminiscences of a Soldier," tells this anecdote: When a subaltern at Gibraltar he was one day on guard with another officer, who unfortunately fell down a precipice four hundred feet high and was killed. My non-military readers should understand that in the guard reports there is a small addendum, viz.: "N. B.—Nothing extraordinary since guard mounting," the meaning of which is that in case anything particular should occur the officer commanding the guard is bound to mention it. Our friend, however, said nothing about the accident that had occurred to his brother officer, and some hours after the brigade Major came to his quarters, on the part of the officer commanding, with the report in his hand to demand an explanation. The brigade Major, addressing him, said: "You say, sir, in your report—'N. B. Nothing extraordinary since guard mounting,' when your brother officer, on duty with you, has fallen down a precipice four hundred feet high, and been killed!" "Well, sir," replied B——, "I dinna think there's anything extraordinary in it ava; if he'd faun down a precipice four hundred feet high and no been killed, I should ha' thought it very extraordinary, indeed, and wad ha' put it down in my report." I fancy the brigade Major's hair must have stood on end while he listened to this cool reply.

A DANGEROUS EXPERIMENT.

The controversy between Mr. Tilton and the Investigating Committee has assumed a new phase. The wires are burdened with rumors that a compromise is on foot and some most startling propositions looking to an adjustment of the question of veracity and character between Tilton [illegible] Beecher are [illegible]. The Brooklyn Argus, which is known as Mr. Tilton's organ, says it is stated that Mrs. Tilton is prepared to confess that she has been "laboring under a hallucination," (i. e., lying); that Beecher is willing to resign his pastorate with the understanding that his society will refuse to accept his resignation, and that Tilton will accept the concession in full and complete satisfaction for all damages to himself and the good name of his family. Another dispatch says Tilton will be willing to entertain a proposition of this nature when paving-stones begin to blossom into roses—the most sensible figure of speech uttered since the scandal first became public. It is hardly possible that Mr. Beecher will undertake such a dangerous experiment as this. He ought, by this time, to know that nothing short of a full and explicit denial of Tilton's specifications, supported by incontrovertible evidence, will suffice to establish his innocence. He ought to [illegible] that if an iota of evidence is suppressed it will raise a strong doubt in favor of Tilton. But even if Mr. Beecher shall be disposed to take this [illegible] it is altogether improbable that Plymouth Church will consent to or support him in it. In that [illegible] stand that in order to save his good name from utter [illegible] acquitted on the evidence. It is folly to suppose, with Mr. Tilton's strong statement before the jury, and nothing to meet it save Beecher's bare denial and Mrs. Tilton's unsupported word (her own hand bearing witness against her), that any compromise, however ingenious it may be, can "leave the matter in such shape that Beecher's reputation will be saved, and Mrs. Tilton's preserved." Any and all attempts in that direction would be worse than absurd.

It is noticeable that these hints of compromise come right on the heels of Moulton's statement, and that along with them comes the [illegible] that that statement will not be given to the public. It is also to be noted that Moulton, in his cross-examination, takes credit to himself for declining to tell the whole truth, so far as he knows it, while he threatens, by implication, that if any indiscreet partisan of either of the principals calls his motives in question, he will punish the offending party by publishing a supplementary statement. This means that Moulton is withholding something which, if given to the world, would materially influence the verdict. And if Mr. Beecher should be acquitted to-morrow, the world would say (and justly, too), that it was solely by Moulton's sufferance.

Of course, Mr. [illegible] is not to be held responsible for the rumors which come to us to-day. But we certainly conceive it to be his best policy to place himself, as soon as possible, beyond the reach of their damaging influence. There is a growing desire on the part of all good people to see the unhappy contest come to an end. There are but two honorable methods by which the truth can be established, and [illegible]. If he can not make a square fight on the [illegible] then there is but one alternative: confession.

[illegible] JACK AND THE BEAN STALK PHENOMENON.

Adelbert Ames, Esq., enjoys the proud distinction of being a son-in-law of the Essex Statesman, and Governor of a State which entertains a profound antipathy for both of them. A few days ago he was trying to persuade the President that a Republican majority could not be obtained in Vicksburg without the interference of Federal soldiery. Here was a good chance for the [illegible], and he took advantage [illegible], for which he deserves credit. On Monday night a body of colored citizens undertook to run the city government of Austin. Some resistance was offered and a general row commenced, a narrative of which makes up a good part of our telegraphic dispatches this morning. Strange to say, Mr. Butler's son-in-law didn't telegraph to Washington for United States troops. He did a sensible thing—authorized a Mississippi militiaman to take any way for the suppression of the riot.

The rise and fall of the negro dynasty in Austin are comprehended in a period of forty-eight hours. This Austin is a little town in the extreme northwestern corner of Mississippi—in Tunica county. Tuesday morning word was sent over all Arkansas and Tennessee that on the night preceding, United States troops had arrested twenty negroes for fighting, and that, in attempting to escape, one negro was killed and another was wounded; whereupon "large bodies of negroes advanced from the South." Subsequently, word was [illegible] town was surrounded by about 1,000 negroes, and the beleaguered inhabitants wanted help. Then there was [illegible] in hot haste. Arkansas and Tennessee poured forth men and rations, and "intense excitement" prevailed in Memphis. Between Monday night and Tuesday afternoon there is a hiatus. But, at 2 P. M., Tuesday, the negroes invested the city. Just here one would naturally look for bloody results, for massacre, rapine and pillage. Not so, however; and in their stead comes [illegible] hiatus. On the following morning the army of rescue marches unmolested into the city of Austin to find the thousand savage negroes gone like the baseless fabric of a dream. And once more sweet peace smiles benignantly on Tunica county.

Summing up the results of this remarkable siege, we find that the negroes were the only sufferers in loss of life. Under such circumstances their moderation is surprising. Indeed, the whole affair looks a little grotesque—leaving out of consideration its results and its natural tendency to inflame the prejudices of the races. It is to be hoped we have heard the last of it. But the Bourbon organs should not fail to demand that the Federal bayonets be removed from Austin.

BRIBERY IN ENGLISH ELECTIONS.

A cable dispatch published in the OREGONIAN several weeks since stated that Albert Grant, member of Parliament for Kidderminster, had been unseated for corruptly influencing or attempting to influence an election. From a statement of the case as given in the letter of a London correspondent it appears that in 1865 Mr. Grant (as it was believed) spent a sum of money in the borough of Kidderminster variously estimated at from £10,000 to £20,000. This, it is said, acquired for Mr. Grant a warm place in the hearts of the voting population of Kidderminster, and gave him an election by a handsome majority. At the last general election he caused his agents to publish that he would handsomely entertain all who voted for him. Grant seems to differ from the American politician chiefly in his regard for promises made before election. He sent the hungry voters of Kidderminster £1,000 with which to defray the expenses of the proposed entertainment, and gave his assent to a plan for adorning the guests with medals and rosettes calculated to satisfy the æsthetic cravings which voters of that class possess. Subsequently, he abandoned the whole project, by advice of a counsellor. But on the trial the Judge (Justice Mellor) held that the promise was an act of corruption, and that it was furthered by the remittance of the money. So Albert Grant was unseated.

An English journal (the London Spectator) comments on the trial in this wise:

> The most extraordinary feature in the case is the influence which an entertainment has, or is supposed to have, upon a class of the electors. It is assumed all round that in Kidderminster, as elsewhere, there are many electors who would sell their political rights for a meal and an evening's jollity. If that is really the case, and it is so in times when the electors are uninterested, the apparent severity of the Judge is fully justified, but the case for manhood suffrage is certainly not improved. All these electors so tempted by a dinner have homes.

THE FARMER'S FRIEND.

It is a proud and profitable title in these days. It smacks of new-mown hay and double eagles, of harvest moons and Buckeye reapers. There has been a time, however, when the good will of the farmer was not so eagerly sought after. It was before he became a Granger and had learned to take care of himself.

From the spirited controversy now going on in San Francisco newspapers, it appears that two prominent firms of speculators in grain, in that city, are fighting for recognition by the Grangers of California. We alluded the other day to a statement made by the Call, the Bulletin and the San Jose Mercury to the effect that arrangements had been made with Falkner, Bell & Co., by which farmers could ship their wheat to Liverpool for $15 per ton, etc. The Chronicle denies that any such agreement exists, and it warns the farmers of California that it is one of Friedlander's lies. It says, however, that the firm of Morgan's Sons wants to do the square thing by the Grangers, and hints that an arrangement exists between them by which freights will be lowered very considerably. The dispute between the organs goes on, and it is probable that its best result will be a strong competition which will redound to the benefit of the farmers. In discussing this matter, the Call presents the following estimate of the wheat ring under the old combination:

> A ship of the average tonnage which leaves this port with grain, takes, say, 1,200 tons. This cargo, at $15—three pounds sterling—earns on a single trip, $18,000. Three pounds per ton, or three-quarters of a cent per pound, is ample freight charges, and we do not believe there is any necessity for paying a higher price. Of course it is understood that by permitting two or three firms to speculate in ships' charters, fortunes may be speedily made. For instance, let a firm charter fifty ships at three pounds and turn them over to the farmers at four pounds, and the enormous sum of $300,000 is made on the transaction.

Here are two more jewels from the swine's snout. The first is from Mr. Samuel Wilkeson who, it is thought by some, allowed his desire to serve Mr. Beecher to get ahead of his veracity. Tilton, it will be remembered, contradicted a certain statement made by Wilkeson before the committee, and to that S. W. opposes this energetic rejoinder:

> "When Tilton denies my statement of his conversation with me he lies. Indeed he is the champion liar of America—no man since Baron Munchausen's day has lied as he lies daily."

Jenkins has not yet reached the lofty altitudes trod by Henry and Elizabeth. He is striving for them, though, as this extract from a newspaper report witnesses:

> "Last evening Mr. Beecher walked among the trees on Columbia Heights with his hands behind him and his white slouch hat over his forehead."

Just why Mr. Beecher didn't wear his hat under his forehead we will leave "for the eternities with their mysteries to reveal."

General Butler is credited with the remark that the next election in Massachusetts will result in the choice of a Democratic Governor and three Democratic Congressmen. From which we conclude that Butler has picked his men and issued his instructions to Simmons. How would this sound, by the way: "Democratic candidate for Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Benj. F. Butler?" That takes one back to the Charleston Convention.

The New York Times seems to be heartily disgusted with the manner in which the Plymouth pastor's little affair is being investigated. It doesn't want any advice from letter-writers, and it tells them so: "We decline to publish any letters discussing the Beecher case. We receive so many every day from correspondents who evidently think themselves fully qualified to settle the dispute—a confidence which we are unable to share—that this notice is rendered indispensable."

All who have felt an interest in the fate of little Charley Ross, the boy who was kidnapped at midday in the heart of one of our great cities, will be sorry to learn that the child detained by the police of Bennington, Vt., is not the missing one. There seems to be no clue upon which the detectives can work. The correspondence between the father and the kidnappers is ended, notwithstanding they were informed that the ransom was ready for them.

Benedict Arnold, when a lad, used to break up pieces of glass and scatter them about the door of the school house, to cut the feet of the bare-footed scholars.

A Boston lady in California says that the big strawberries of the Pacific coast have but little flavor, being a cross between a turnip and a dried apple.

FROM ASTORIA.

ASTORIA, August 11, 1874.

The term of Circuit Court here presents a small docket. The cases are of rather more than ordinary importance, I believe. One noticeable feature is the expedition with which the Grand Jury, which was empaneled only this morning, have done their work. This afternoon they presented three indictments, reported they were through all their duties, and were discharged. This promptness on the part of the Grand Jury and Prosecuting Attorney is quite a saving to the county.

This is the last term of Court to be held by Judge Upton on the Circuit. He will preside at the Supreme Court which sits next week. The Judge retires from the bench after nearly seven years' service, with, perhaps, as few mistakes to regret as any other man would have under similar circumstances, and will resume his place at the bar enjoying the personal friendship and good wishes of the profession generally.

The moving hither and thither of people on their way to and from the watering places gives Astoria a very lively appearance. This is the point of distribution. Hither come all who go to the Seaside House, Summer House, Ocean House, Shoalwater Bay, Baker's Bay—everywhere up and down the coast—and here they scatter out for their respective destinations. Hither also come they all when they wish to return home, and here they take boat up the river. The opposition on the river makes traveling cheap and of course augments it greatly. Astoria is full of people, and they tell me it has been so for many weeks. In a few weeks more this rush of travel will have ended; still the town will not be as quiet as it was a year or two ago when the watering season closed, for the permanent improvements of the last twelve months have added greatly to its permanent population and business activity.

BEECHER-TILTON.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Perhaps the solution of the Beecher-Tilton enigma, and the reason of the incapacity of common folks to comprehend the sublimated style of thought and manner of utterance indulged in by the parties mainly concerned, is to be discovered in the remark of some writer which attracted our attention a few years since. It was to the effect that the world, morally speaking, was formerly supposed to be divided into two classes of persons, Saints and Sinners; but that more modern experience has demonstrated that there are three classes: [illegible]

A. B. C.

THE GREAT FARMER OF ILLINOIS.—Says the El Paso (Ill.) Journal of July 18th: M. L. Sullivant, the great farmer of Illinois and of the West, too, for that matter, was in El Paso Saturday. He called on S[illegible] & Rouse, who have been supplying him with agricultural machinery for some years, and ordered of them a half dozen Buckeye mowers. Sullivant is one of those cheerful souls who never do anything by halves. A correspondent says of his farm: "I was at Sullivant's farm to-day. It is about eight miles square, and contains about 44,000 acres. Met Sullivant in his office, and found him a most pleasant and agreeable man, ready to entertain any one who calls. I am indebted to W. B. Dix, chief clerk, for the following condensed report of the workings of the farm: Number of hands employed, about 600; mules and horses, 1,000; cattle (oxen), 50; number acres in corn, [illegible]; acres in small grain 3,000; miles of hedge, 300; head of hogs, 1,100; head of cattle, 600. Everything is run in regular military style. He can tell you just what it costs to raise a bushel of grain on any section of his farm, also the cost each month to feed the hands. The hands are all hired by the month and boarded. There is a resident doctor—Dr. Blair—who attends to the sick. According to actual figures it is demonstrated that 11 cents per bushel, in ordinary seasons, will put corn in the crib, and 26 cents per day will board hands. The bill of fare is better than that found in most boarding houses. The following is the bill of fare for June, 1874: Smoked shoulder, mess beef, fresh beef, flour, bread, rice, beans, peas, tea, coffee, sugar, dried apples, vinegar, molasses, lard, spices, eggs, fresh vegetables, etc., cost per capita, 26¼ cents. Found Fay, the cashier, Miner, the general superintendent, and others, very pleasant gentlemen. A general stock of goods are kept, from which the men are supplied at net cost. An elevator of 35,000 bushels capacity is about ready to receive grain. It is said to be, by competent judges, the best and most complete elevator in the State, outside of Chicago. There is now in crib on the farm 450,000 bushels of corn, waiting the completion of the elevator to be shelled and shipped. [illegible] look splendid; the recent rain has removed all apprehensions of injury from drought."

CITY.

THE ALICE.—The following is a description of the schooner Alice built over on the Sound at Port Blakely, and now on the dry dock at San Francisco. The Alice was built from keel to truck of Oregon or Puget Sound fir the lightest and strongest timber with which to build vessels for those who go down to the sea in ships. She is 120 feet in length (over all) and the keel is one stick of timber and her inside and outside planking scarcely show a butt, the timber being of such a length as to run from stem to stern. Her knees are from the roots of the fir and the frame is natural to the bend of the knee. The Alice will carry and has taken from Puget Sound to Port San Pedro 530 000 feet of lumber. She has a broad flat floor with little dead rise, a straight rail and sharp both forward and aft. Her length of keel is 106 feet, breadth of beam 31 feet, and depth of hold 11 feet. She is schooner rigged and her masts are 86 and 88 feet and main boom 6[illegible] feet. The Alice will carry 500 tons dead weight, while her register is only 252 tons. She is put on for Victoria to take freight and call at the Messrs Hooper's mills at Trinidad and fill up with redwood lumber.

[illegible] —We are informed on reliable authority, that it is the practice of boy hunters of the city to shoot tame ducks which belong to farmers who reside adjacent to Portland. Last Sunday a number of boys whose ages range from twelve to eighteen years armed with shot guns went out hunting, and committed sad havoc among a flock of ducks belonging to an old Scotchman living below the city. The boys found the ducks disporting on a pond a little distance from the house and fired several shots among them killing a number and wounding others. As the ducks were tame they did not fly off, and thus afforded the boys another opportunity to blaze away again, which they were not slow to improve. The poor old fellow, [illegible] the ducks, did not learn his loss until they had [illegible] the [illegible] good their escape. We [illegible] such sport (?) is frequently indulged in by these very promising youths. Such conduct is not only reprehensible but should meet with prompt and adequate punishment whenever the offenders are detected.

HOUSE THIEVES.—On Sunday night some thieves entered the house of a Mrs McDonald who resides on Fourth street, near Washington. They effected an entrance to the basement of the house, and, after helping themselves with a liberal hand to various edible articles, quietly took their departure. On Monday night the residence of Mrs Cummons who lives next door north of the building occupied by Mrs. McL[illegible], was invaded by the light-fingered brigade. The thieves got into the kitchen by some means and took a can of coal oil away, together with some other articles. In both cases the presence of the burglars was not discovered but on the following morning the articles missed told the story of the [illegible].

A LARGE PROPELLER.—A mammoth propeller was brought up on the Ajax which belongs to the steamer California. This propeller was cast many years ago in New York and brought out on the California when that vessel first came to this coast. It was cast merely as an extra propeller in the event of an accident. Since being brought out it has been lying on the dock at San Francisco until last week. It is 11½ feet in diameter, has four wings and weighs about 5,000 pounds. As the northern coast is known to be rough, and an accident is liable to occur at any time [illegible] the [illegible] and this port, the propeller will be placed and kept on board the California, to be used whenever emergency shall require.

WE PROTEST.—We feel constrained to earnestly protest against the conduct of a certain Celestial laundryman who lives north of the Cosmopolitan Hotel, on sanitary grounds as well as those of common decency. This industrious heathen appears each day on his back porch, to hang up clothes, in a state closely bordering on that which the Bible leads us to believe our first parents were prior to the time that the forbidden fruit was touched. Fancy the fellow two-thirds nude exhibiting the curves and angles of his symmetrical form to a crowd of admiring spectators. And then such a wanton exposure might subject the fellow to the combined miseries of sore throat and influenza and we must protest.

SERVICES.—During the present Conference week religious services will be held in the Taylor street Church every evening. Last evening interesting services were held on which occasion Rev Mr Hurlburt, of the United Brethren Church, delivered an excellent discourse. This evening appropriate services will be held at the Church, on the anniversary of the Conference Church Extension Society. Platform addresses will be delivered by various speakers of the Oregon and other Conferences and an interesting time is anticipated. A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

SHIPPING NOTES.—The bark Mary Bell Roberts is now down the river loading with salmon at one of the fisheries. Yesterday morning the schooner Dreadnought was towed down the river by the Beaver to one of the fisheries where she will receive a cargo for San Francisco. The schooner Mila Bond has discharged cargo and is moored at Carter's wharf. It is probable that the Phil Sheridan of the Star Packet Line, will go on berth at San Francisco in a few days for Portland. The steamer Ajax will sail hence for San Francisco on Friday.

AN EYE INJURED.—From the evening paper it is learned that a young man named Thomas, residing near the Columbia Slough, had his left eye severely injured yesterday morning by a piece of percussion cap which he had just exploded while in the act of shooting some game. A messenger was immediately dispatched to this city for a physician who upon examination pronounced the wound a dangerous one. Should inflammation follow the eye will be permanently disabled.

THE MORRISON STREET MARKET.—We understand that this popular enterprise is now about to be taken hold of in earnest. We are informed that a good portion of the capital necessary is already pledged and the stalls agreed to be taken and those having the matter in hand will proceed at once to perfect arrangements with the view of an early completion of this much needed improvement.

ARRIVED.—The bark Arbutus, of Dundee Captain Henderson arrived at Astoria on Tuesday 102 days from Santos Brazil. She belongs to the Oregon Shipping Company of Scotland and will reach Portland on Saturday. Mr William Reid the Company's Agent here has chartered her to Corbitt & Macleay.

ANNUAL REPORT.—We have just received a copy of the annual report of the Chief Engineer of the Portland Fire Department for the year ending July 1 1874 which has just been issued. It is a very neatly printed pamphlet of twenty pages, and contains much important information concerning fire matters.

GOLD-BEARING QUARTZ.—Mr Ladd of St Helens is represented to have discovered a gold bearing quartz ledge in Columbia county the croppings of which assay over $10 per ton. Our informant had not been able to learn anything concerning the width of the ledge or its exact location.

STOCKHOLDERS MEETING.—The stockholders of the Northwestern Storage, Shipping and Commission Company of the Patrons of Husbandry will hold their annual meeting on Saturday next, at the office of the Company in this city commencing at 10 o'clock in the morning.

The collection of 600 birds, representing 300 varieties neatly stuffed and mounted in the Museum is of itself a very beautiful sight

A DISTRESSING FATAL ACCIDENT

To our regular Astoria correspondent we are indebted for the following account of a sad case of drowning which occurred there on Tuesday afternoon.

On Tuesday shortly after the arrival of the Portland steamer Charlie Page, who with his father Judge Page came down on the Willamette Chief, was accidentally drowned. Shortly after their arrival Judge Page proceeded to attend Court—then in session—leaving his son Charlie with his uncle who is bookkeeper in Capt Flavel's store. It appears the little fellow went down the boat steps adjoining the store and entered, alone, a small boat and attempted to scull her out into the small bay east of Arrigoni's Hotel. The first intimation of an accident came from a man on board of a scow moored in the bay who discovered a tenantless boat floating by with an oar and a boy's cap close alongside. He gave the alarm. Little Charlie was missed and an immediate search was commenced. Mr Page the uncle and several other citizens took to the water which was breast deep and commenced a thorough search for the poor boy if haply he might be recovered before the vital spark had fled. A Kanaka was employed who dived down and searched the bottom in the immediate vicinity of the spot where the cap was found floating. A messenger had been dispatched to the Court House to the father who on receiving the information that his son was missing and under what circumstances ran so rapidly to the spot that he distanced all who started from the Court House with him. By the time he arrived at least 200 persons were on the spot awaiting the result of the search with breathless anxiety and hoping almost against hope that little Charlie might yet be saved. But the length of time that had elapsed almost precluded all hope. The frantic grief of the father who would have jumped into the water after his boy had not the strong arms of his friends, who knew everything was being done that could be done prevented him was most distressing to witness. In an agony of grief he fell to the ground and became perfectly unconscious. In the meantime, other searchers had volunteered, and drags and hooks and every available appliance was brought into requisition to recover the body of the poor boy. About 5 o'clock, just as a large [illegible] the search had been unremittingly pursued for about an hour the cry was heard, "Here he is" and the lifeless body was placed in a boat and conveyed to shore, from whence it was taken to the residence of Capt Geo Flavel, where for a long time every effort was made under competent medical direction to resuscitate the body but of course without avail. The remains were brought up on the Emma Hayward yesterday afternoon accompanied by the almost heart broken father, and taken home, where they were received by the mother, whose deep anguish of soul at the terrible bereavement only the maternal bosom can experience. The funeral will take place to-day. [illegible] He was the third child of Mr Page, aged about 8 years, and was a remarkably bright and promising boy. The parents have the strong sympathy of the community for the terrible stroke which has fallen on their household.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Very active along the docks.

Mrs. Marriner's benefit this evening.

Steamer to sail at 4 A. M. to-morrow.

Days are growing beautifully shorter.

O[illegible] peaches are coming into market.

The old Washington Guard Armory is turned around.

Fire alarms have been noticeably scarce lately. Good.

Key West cigars are something new in that line in these parts.

More discharged Chinamen arrived from the fisheries yesterday.

Sheriff Jeffery has eight persons under his care at the county jail.

Several new planks are visible in the pavements heretofore unsafe.

Three vessels are now in the river bound up. Their names we have not been able to learn.

The steamer Ajax brought up 600 tons of assorted cargo which is being rapidly discharged.

Some necessary improvements are being made to the block on which the Central School building stands.

Geo. W Vollum who has been confined to his house for the past two weeks with a severe attack of illness, is convalescent.

The stilt walking mania has broke out among the boys again. We patiently await to chronicle broken shins and barked elbows.

Piles are being driven for the new wharf to be constructed at the foot of Salmon street by the Pacific Warehouse and Dock Company.

The screws of the house-mover are under the old engine house of Multnomah No 2. It will soon be en route for the southern end of the city.

One hundred and sixty thousand wheat sacks were brought up on the last steamer. Think of the immense quantities of grain these [illegible] will enclose.

It is reported that Capt White formerly of the bark Forward has gone to Europe to bring out two new vessels for the Oregon Pacific Islands and China trade.

Will boys never profit by oft repeated precepts and examples that water will drown? Remember boys, that the knowledge of danger frequently comes too late.

National Temperance Prayer Meeting will be held in the vestry of the Baptist Church August 14th at 3 o clock P M. The meeting is open to all who may wish to attend.

There is a gaping vacancy about the center of the block bounded by First Second Morrison and Yamhill streets caused by the exodus of a number of wooden tenements.

Mr D J Malarkey United States Marshal, who met with a very painful accident several weeks since, by being thrown from a wagon is we are gratified to state, again able to hobble around.

Union Temperance Meeting will be held in the Congregational Church Friday evening August 14th. Exercises will be in charge of the women of the Prayer League. A cordial invitation extended to all who may wish to attend.

The mines at Canyon City are yielding well the present season judging from the amount of gold constantly arriving from that section. Mr J H Fisk weighed some $7 600 of this dust yesterday, and it all yielded an average of $17 per ounce.

Nothing like being fashionable. Young ladies in some of the Eastern States are hunting up their brothers old hats sticking feathers in them and strutting about with them on. Tis the fashion, and it is awfully stunning. How would the young men look in the girls old hats?

A model hoodlum whose example our Portland ones ought to emulate. A boy was brought to the city prison at San Francisco a few days ago on whose person was found a Smith & Wesson's revolver, police size, some cartridges, a paper of chewing tobacco and some cigarettes, supposed to have been stolen.

A brief and simple form of marriage service is reported as becoming fashionable in eastern society. This is the way in which it is done. Join your right hands. Do you want one another? (They both answer, "Yes.") Well then have one another. You're man and wife. Let our local Justice of the Peace improve on the suggestion offered.

PERSONAL.

Mr P F Thompson formerly Deputy Collector of Customs at Sitka has returned to this city.

Mr Henry Garrett formerly R G Dun & Co's manager in this city, arrived on the steamer. He goes to Puget Sound shortly.

Right Rev Bishop Morris will officiate at St Paul Episcopal Church Salem next Sunday and administer the rite of confirmation.

Mr P B Curry of this city has been appointed Wells Fargo & Co's agent on the O & C R R to fill the vacancy occasioned by the appointment of Mr Fuller to the Salem [illegible].

TO PLEASURE SEEKERS.

Parties leaving the city for a season of pleasure should recollect Oysterville where Mrs Carruthers at her cosy [illegible] will look after [illegible]tors.

AT KOHN'S.

That pioneer Clothier J Kohn opposite National Bank is affording his numerous patrons an excellent opportunity to buy Summer Suits, Underwear Furnishing Goods. The dull times demand a reduction in the prices heretofore asked, and he is giving his customers the benefit of a decided reduction made at his place. There is no buncombe about it. What he says he will do. Take advantage of the present opportunity. Note the location.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Twenty-Second Annual Conference.

FIRST DAY

The twenty second Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church convened in this city in the audience room of the Taylor street Church at 9 o'clock August 12 1874 Bishop Stephen M Merrill presiding.

The exercises were opened by the Bishop who read the 55th chapter of Isaiah commencing "Ho every one that thirsteth come ye to the waters" [illegible] and also the 13th chapter of I Corinthians. Hymn number 1[illegible] commencing—

Jesus thy blood and righteousness

Was given out and sung after which the Bishop offered up a most fervent prayer.

The Bishop announced that though it was the general usage of the Conference to open its sessions with the administration of the sacrament of the Lord's Supper yet as it was too early for the large number of the lay members of the church in the city to be present that sacrament would be postponed.

The Secretary of the last Conference H K Hines being a member of the Eastern Oregon and Washington Conference the Assistant Secretary J W Miller called the roll and the following were found to be present:

John Spencer Wm Roberts, John Flinn I Dillon T F Royal J L Parrish N Doane I T Woodward J W Miller J H B Royal G C Roe N Clark R Booth P M Starr, S Mathew D I Spaulding I D Driver W D Nichols C W Todd A C Fairchild W I Cosper J T Wolfe S H Mann J H Adams H Patterson J H Allyn C H Hoxie J W Turner I A Wood S H Todd J S McCain, G W Roork I Hoberg J H Roork I J Powell C W Shaw L M Nickerson G W Izer W T Chapman J N Dennison Martin Judy, Wm McPheeters, Wm Butt.

PROBATIONERS.

P M Reece, I Wilson

The Conference proceeded to elect a Secretary. On the second ballot L M Nickerson was elected.

C W Shaw was elected Assistant Secretary, on the nomination of the Secretary, and J W Miller was elected Statistical Secretary.

The Standing Committees were then selected by the Conference as follows:

Committee on Missions—The Presiding Elders.

On Stewards—Joseph Hoberg J S McCain R Booth J H Allyn.

On Education—N Doane P M Starr I Dillon N Clark J H. Adams L N Cooke A C Gibbs.

On Bible Cause—John Flinn W J Cosper G W Roork.

On Sunday Schools—I Wilson T F Royal W T Chapman.

On Tract Cause—D I Spaulding, J S Douglass, J N Dennison.

On Temperance—A C Fairchild, G H Greer M Judy, T F Royal J W Miller.

On Condition of Indians—J T Wolfe J L Parrish S H Mann.

Auditing Committee—H Patterson, J. H. B Royal.

On Public Worship—Wm Roberts, G W Izer, T F Royal.

On Church Extension—C W Shaw Wm McPheeters, J W Miller.

On Sanctity of Sabbath—J N Dennison, R. Booth.

On Periodicals and Book Concern Accounts—I. Dillon, W. D. Nichols, C. W. Todd, H Patterson.

On [illegible]—I. D Driver, J L. Parrish.

On Freedmen's Aid Society—N. Clark, A. C Fairchild, W. I Cosper, S. H Mann.

The names of A. C. Gibbs and L. N. Cooke [illegible] from the Committee on Education because not members of the Conference.

The Bishop announced that each Committee would select its own Chairman.

On motion it was voted that the Conference meet at 8 30 o clock and adjourn at 12 M in its daily sessions.

The bar of the Conference was fixed so as to include the five front seats.

The wives of preachers present were invited to seats within the bar.

The Bishop announced a package of papers on his table in relation to J F DeVore, against whom charges have been preferred. When his case was taken up, C W Todd moved that the case be referred to a Select Committee for trial which was seconded. This gave rise to a discussion in which Revs Doane, Spencer C W Todd Roberts, Dillon Nichols and Driver participated and in which some considerable feeling was manifested by some of the reverend brethren. The motion was declared lost by a vote of 13 to 19.

Rev Wm Roberts moved to refer the case to a Committee to take the testimony and report the same to the Conference. This motion was lost by a vote of 15 to 20.

It was then moved and carried that the case be taken up immediately after the opening exercises to-morrow morning before the whole Conference.

The third question of the Conference, "Who remain on trial?" was taken up. T M Reece was called and reported his collections. His character passed. He had been in charge on Chehalis Circuit. He was continued on trial.

Geo Coffey was not present. Had gone to Canada on account of ill health. His character passed. Had been in charge at St Helens and Kalama. He was discontinued at his own request.

L D Curtis was called and on motion a committee was appointed on his case. Bros Fairchild, Starr and Doane were appointed.

Question sixth "Who are the Deacons?" was taken up. John N Dennison character passed. Had been in charge of Rock Creek Circuit. Had been successful and was passed to the second class.

Ira L Ward had gone to his work and remained there for a portion of the year and then left. He requested to withdraw from the church. Granted.

Martin Judy, character [illegible]. Had been at Oregon City during the year, and was passed to the second class.

William McPheeters was called. His presiding elder represented that charges were against him. A committee of inquiry was appointed consisting of John Flinn, T F Royal and J Hoberg, on this case.

Rev Mr Haun of the Iowa Conference Rev Wm Hulburt and Rev P C Hetzler of the United Brethren Church Rev. J B Hill and Rev John Thompson of the California Conference, and Rev H K Hines of the Eastern Oregon and Washington Conference were severally introduced to the Conference and invited to seats within the bar and to participate in the discussions of the Conference.

The seventh question "Who are to be elected to be ordained Elders this year?" was taken up.

W T Chapman character passed. Had been in charge at Tacoma and Oysterville and had been successful. He was elected to Elders orders.

Notices were given out, the doxology was sung and the Conference adjourned with the benediction by Rev I D Driver.

AMUSEMENTS.

At Masonic Hall this evening Mrs Marriner will be the recipient of a grand testimonial benefit prior to her departure for San Francisco. The following excellent programme will be presented: Melody on New and Popular Airs Mr Harry I Lask. The Queen's Letter Mr A Wilkie. Bel Raggio Mrs Marriner. The Wanderer Mr W C Campbell. O Worse than Death Indeed! Angels ever bright and fair Madame Bishop. M'Appari Ap Martha Mr A Wilkie. Carlo Mio Mrs Marriner and Mr W C Campbell. Oft in the Stilly Night Madame Anna Bishop. Good Night Farewell Mr W C Campbell. Swiss Echo Song Mrs Marriner. Then You'll Remember Me Mr A Wilkie. Il Sol Quest Anima Madame Anna Bishop Messrs A Wilkie and W C Campbell. Already a large number of tickets have been sold and every appearance betokens a crowded house. Box office will be open this morning at 9 o'clock at Geo A Steel's music store. No extra charge for reserved seats.

In these times, when men count their coin before expending any considerable sum it is conclusive evidence that money is decidedly scarce and a man is calculating on the best and surest mode of making the amount of what spare change he has. Now in buying clothing the buyer reflects before making a purchase. He wants to know where by expending the least money he can at the same time receive [illegible]. We would advise all in want of something substantial as well as cheap to call on Beck & Weidman.

For Fine and Artistic Photographs go to Buchtel & Stolte, 91 and 93 First Street the only First Class Gallery in the State.

AN ESTABLISHED REMEDY.—"Brown's BRONCHIAL TROCHES" are widely known as an established remedy for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness and other troubles of the Throat and Lungs.

[illegible] of Tobacco.—Aggravated dyspepsia. It destroys the tone of the stomach and weakens the gastric juices which reduce the food to chyle and prepare it for the nutrition of the body. Experience shows that a discontinuance of the use of tobacco, and the regular employment of PLANTATION BITTERS will restore the vitality to the [illegible] organs, and [illegible].

Bruises.—Man is ever liable to bruises. It is hard to keep out of scrapes. But there is an infallible remedy for such afflictions in the MEXICAN MUSTANG LINIMENT. It soothes the pain, removes inflammation and leaves nature free to work out a cure for the affected parts. Nearly thirty years ago this preparation was first offered to the people. As everything even good, needs to be known to be appreciated it was only after a career of remarkable success that this liniment took its present foremost place among the alleviators of pain. This is attested by its ever increasing sale. [illegible] Try a bottle and learn its value.

It is easy to distinguish the hectic spot of consumption and the flush brought to the cheek by the use of [illegible]. Both end in death. But HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM removes the causes of cutaneous disease and induces health. The glow returns to the cheek and there is nothing unnatural in it. The lady feels better and happier. Every woman owes it to herself to use the Balm because Beauty to her is strength.

Boadicea! The Queen of the Iceni a people of Britain at the head of an army attacked their Roman invaders during the first century of the Christian era, reduced London to ashes and put seventy thousand people to the sword. She is described as one of the most beautiful women and a prototype of female patriots. She wore her long yellow hair floating in the wind and a splendid golden torque on her neck. Luxuriant hair has been always regarded as a crowning beauty for women, and any [illegible] have it who will use LYON'S KATHAIRON.

THURSDAY MORNING AUGUST 13 1874

ANOTHER [illegible] OF ADMOR.

A SINGULAR INTERVIEW WITH MR. BEECHER—THE PLYMOUTH PASTOR LAUGHS AND JOKES OVER HIS TROUBLES

The Brooklyn Argus of Thursday published a funny interview with the Rev Henry Ward Beecher. The author of the talk in question met the pastor of Plymouth Church on the corner of Court and Montague streets on Wednesday night and upon accosting him, the subjoined dialogue ensued

"I suppose," said Mr Beecher, "you would like to have me say something?"

"Well Mr Beecher it would afford me profound pleasure to record anything you might be pleased to say concerning almost anything, but I would be particularly delighted to have you say something concerning yourself in this scandal matter."

Mr Beecher—Well, if you want to [illegible] me, you can. Come along here, if you are not otherwise engaged, and I'll talk to you.

Mr Beecher then took the reporter's arm and proceeded through the Heights to Mr. Beecher's [illegible]

"By the way," [illegible] Mr. B. [illegible] there [illegible] son [illegible]

Reporter—You [illegible] than [illegible]

Mr B. [illegible] Oh, [illegible] men [illegible] made people believe so. I am, you know, something of a newspaper man myself. I always like to meet reporters. There are, to be sure, some black sheep among them; but I think they will compare favorably with any other profession in the world. This business of mine, I think, [illegible] of them good.

Reporter—What do you mean by that?

Mr Beecher—Well it has induced a good many of them to go to church. Plymouth of course [illegible] that does them [illegible] [illegible] for they are necessarily the most attentive and observing portion of the congregation.

Reporter—Have you the detailed statement which you promised ready?

Mr Beecher (laughing [illegible]) Several others would like to know that.

Reporter—Yes, sir and I assure you that if you tell me what [illegible] it before to-morrow night

Mr Beecher—Can't you get anything out of the Committee?

Reporter—Sometimes a little.

Mr Beecher—[illegible] there's a little leak there

Reporter—Have you been before the Committee this afternoon?

Mr Beecher (facetiously)—The Committee was there before me, [illegible]

Reporter—How long do you think the members were there before you to-day?

Mr Beecher—Really, I did not measure it

Reporter—Did you present them with any statement to-day?

Mr Beecher—No. I am free to say to you that I have been, am still and will continue to work at it. Now how much do you think you can write out of what I have been saying to you?

Reporter—That depends upon how much more you may say seriously. You are evidently in a jocose mood but I mean business

Mr Beecher—I think you ought to see Mrs Beecher. She'll tell you a great deal more than I feel disposed to. "Won't she Henry?" (addressing his son who walked the other side of him)

Henry gave an affirmative nod.

Reporter—But [illegible] would [illegible] Mrs Beecher

Mr Beecher—I confide everything to her and she can and I think will answer satisfactorily any question you put to her. I know too that she would be glad to see you.

Reporter—When will you make your statement public

Mr Beecher—Well there's the Trustees of Trinity Church who are ever so anxious to have me go over there and after the religious exercises and a tune or two by Brother Morgan on the organ why I'll get up and make my statement. There is sure to be a big crowd and the tickets are to be [illegible] each.

Reporter—What will be done with the proceeds?

Mr Beecher—I'll get 50 per cent of course and the balance will be given to some other charity

At this point Mr Beecher laughed outright so did his son and [illegible] couldn't help it and laughed heartier than either.

"But," [illegible] Mr Beecher, continuing, "the trouble about the matter is that Grace Church is vieing with Trinity and want to have me exclusively, and so I am in a quandary. Can you suggest any means by which I could get out of it?

Reporter—Certainly I can and in addition to that I would lend all my influence in the scheme I am about to suggest. I believe in home rule, and instead of going to New York I'd give Brother Talmage a lift and deliver the statement in his Tabernacle

Mr Beecher [illegible]—Do you know I think Brother Talmage would like to capture me?

[illegible] bothered by inquisitive reporters?

Mr Beecher—Oh no. I like to meet them, but I'm careful now what I say to them. I have been a credulous and confiding sort of a boy but I think I'll soon show that I have not been a bad boy

Reporter—You have been accused of being a little naughty and [illegible] would like me to prove that you have been a good boy

Mr Beecher—And I will soon. Of that you may be certain. The newspapers have been severely harsh upon both sides of this question.

Reporter—May I state that neither yourself [illegible] rest of Mr Tilton?

Mr Beecher—Ah, poor Theodore! You know as well as I do all about that

Reporter—But I would like to have an authoritative [illegible] yourself

Mr Beecher—I'll not deny it, for there is no necessity. Did the examination before Justice Riley come off to-day?

Reporter—Yes sir and is adjourned till Monday.

Mr [illegible]—I [illegible] you can make a column out of this [illegible] like to [illegible] a little more solid, and I think I might make more than a column. Indeed, if you answer me two questions I'll promise to electrify Brooklyn with a "stick."

Mr Beecher—You can stick the people as much as you like, but the Committee you see will necessarily have the preference as to what I have to say and will say

Reporter—[illegible] Bowen to appear before the Committee?

Mr Beecher—Mr Bowen is away in the country—enjoying himself, I hope. And that reminds me. Mr Bowen is a great friend of mine, you know.

Reporter—I have heard statements to the contrary

Mr Beecher—Well, tell me what you know about this very matter?

Reporter—[illegible] say Mr. Bowen has been the Mephistopheles of this whole scandal.

Mr. Beecher (reflectively)—Well well. I have always tried to be friendly with him and I [illegible] behind his back now

At this point of the conversation Mr Beecher's residence was reached and the interview terminated

A QUEER EXHIBITION.—A curious exhibition, says the Pall Mall Gazette, has lately been open to the public in the lunatic asylum at Brunfeld [illegible] The objects exhibited are divided into three classes, the first comprising 210 articles made entirely by the lunatics, the second articles destroyed by them in their moments of frenzy, and the third models etc showing how they are lodged and clothed. Among the articles in the first class are delicately carved meerschaum pipes, lace, picture frames and a [illegible] remarkable collection of paintings by Kratky who, before he became insane, was a celebrated artist at Vienna. These paintings show no signs of insanity, and one of them is wonderfully life-like representation of the lunatics hearing mass in the chapel attached to the asylum. Next to these specimens of the constructive skill of the inmates are placed huge iron bars bent double, spoons and iron plates broken to pieces and doors split in half. The favorite occupation of these unfortunate people are stated to be writing and drawing in which some of them are singularly proficient

A baby is about to make its debut in Rio Janeiro whose appearance may make a difference. The Count d'Eu and the Princess Imperial have arrived from [illegible] to fulfill the constitutional clause which prescribes that the heirs of the throne shall be born in Brazil. If the child is a male he will set aside the sons of the younger sister, the deceased Princess Leopold

The general condition of ease in local monetary circles, before oft-mentioned, still exists and long time loans can be secured at lower rates than have ever [illegible] before in Oregon. The supply of funds [illegible] it is expected, will find investment in moving the crop, is quite large, and though the [illegible] demand does not appear to set in in as [illegible] as was looked for, there is not much doubt that the requirements from that direction will increase largely in the course of a few weeks when a closer but in no wise stringent, market will be the rule.

Notwithstanding the public and financiers, and the public generally admit that the money supply is [illegible], there are those to be found in this as well as every other community, who complain of the [illegible] money like wine, must always be scarce with those who have neither [illegible] to buy it, nor credit to borrow it. Those who have either will seldom be in want either of the money or of the wine which they have occasion for. This complaint however of the scarcity of money, is not always confined to improvident spendthrifts. It is sometimes a general [illegible] through a whole [illegible] and the country in its neighborhood. [illegible] is the common cause of it. [illegible] whose [illegible] have been disproportioned to their capitals, are as likely to have neither wherewithal to buy money nor credit to borrow it as prodigals whose expense has been disproportioned to their revenue. Before their projects can be brought to bear their stock (capital) is gone and their credit with it. They run about everywhere to borrow money and everybody tells them that they have none to lend. It is not any scarcity of gold and silver but the difficulty which such people find in borrowing and which their creditors find in getting payment that occasions a general complaint of the scarcity of money.

Miscellaneous

[illegible] which [illegible] at San Francisco last month were in ballast. Three of these were foreign schooners sent for assorted cargoes for Mexico and the Society Islands. The other four are for wheat cargoes and only one of the number remains unengaged. There were five large ships from New York, three from Liverpool and one from Marseilles all without [illegible] cargo.

The following is Beerbohm's London and Liverpool wheat telegram of August 7th: "Floating cargoes off coast, [illegible], cargoes on passage, quiet. No 1 spring off coast [illegible] Liverpool strong; California club, 11s [illegible], do. average, 11s [illegible] 1s 10d red Western spring 9s 10d@10s 6d. Weather in England, cloudy [illegible] report—Liverpool easier, California average 11s 3d@11s 9d red Western spring 9s 9d@10s 5d

A San Francisco exchange of August 7th says, Fresh salmon is no longer in season the law prohibiting its capture in the waters of this State from the 1st of August to the 1st of November. Last year the market was stocked with Oregon Salmon, where no such prohibitory law is in force although some of the fish then offered were fresh enough to arouse one's suspicions as to whether they had actually [illegible] caught after all in the Sacramento. It remains yet to be seen whether the same practice will be in order this season. We would suggest to our Legislature whether the passage of a law in our State similar to the California statute, would not be proper.

The complaints of San Francisco merchants against the Pacific Mail Company in a matter of a preference given by the agents in Japan to New York tea importers are well known. A statement of the grievances fully authenticated was forwarded to two or three New York papers. One of the papers submitted the statement to the Managing Director Hatch before printing it and appended his comments, which were to the effect that the statement was false in every particular. It seems that he has since found this charge a little too sweeping, and now explains the preference given New York importers on the ground that it was impossible to accommodate all and it was of course to the advantage of the Company to secure through freight at [illegible] a ton in preference to accepting way freight at [illegible] a ton
